WOMEN'S LIB GOES TOO FAR

MONZA, Italy (Reuters) — A court Friday night sentenced a man to a one-month suspended jail sentence for not making love to his wife.

A woman magistrate, Anna Maria di Oreste, imposed the sentence on Edellino Frigatti, 41, after his wife Bruna, 39, brought an action against him.

Women often have been sentenced in similar cases but lawyers could not recollect a case where a husband was the defendant.

Italian women are liable to a year's imprisonment for failing to meet their husbands' demands, but courts tend to impose suspended sentences.

It's Worse Back East

MONTREAL (CP) — Storm-weary Montrealers were warned Friday they can look forward to another six inches of snow Sunday as the blizzard which dumped almost 20 inches of snow on this city Thursday swept through the Maritimes.

The public weather office forecast between three and six inches of snow for Sunday in the wake of the storm which brought this winter's total snowfall to 142 inches, surpassing the post-war record of 138.7 inches set in 1946.

Seventeen persons lost their lives in incidents connected with the storm which the McGill University weather observatory said produced the largest snowfall in a 24-hour period this century.

Most of the deaths were due to heart attacks or asphyxiation in automobiles. Police said the storm was probably the most lethal in several decades and reported many instances of people suffering non-fatal heart attacks and strokes while battling the storm.

CARS ABANDONED

Many events were postponed or cancelled as crews battled to open streets clogged by abandoned cars and massive snowdrifts. The trial of Paul Rose for the non-capital murder of former Quebec labor minister Pierre Laporte was postponed Friday for the second consecutive day and there was no immediate indication when it would resume.

The storm, whipped by winds of up to 75 miles an hour, dumped 20 inches of snow and huge drifts as it ripped into northern New Brunswick.

Only six of the 17 storm fatalities in Quebec province had been identified late Friday.

British Posties Flock Back

LONDON (AP) — A massive return-to-work vote across the country today seemed to indicate a reopening of Britain's strikebound postal services Monday after a seven-week shutdown.

Balloting began Friday in the 1,100 branches of the Union of Postal Workers on an appeal to union leaders to end the strike and submit to de facto pay dispute to a commission of inquiry.

Final results are not expected to be announced until Sunday. The Liverpool branch rejected the return-to-work call. More than 2,000 postal workers there voted to call a mass rally Monday to protest "the indecent haste" of the union's national executive committee to end the strike.

Elsewhere the return was approved by margins as high as 3 to 1.

Belfast Youth Slain In Riot

BELFAST (AP) — British troops shot dead a teenager and wounded four other rioters early today during a battle which swept the Roman Catholic Falls Road area of this Northern Ireland capital.

Security forces reported just before dawn that quiet had returned to the area and said 23 persons were arrested during the disorder. It followed a major riot in the area during the afternoon Friday.

The shooting was along Balaclava Street in the district which has become a flashpoint of the political and economic strife that has plagued the country for years.

Soldiers were called to the district shortly after midnight to put down bomb-throwing mobs. Snipers of the outlandish Irish Republican Army kept bullets flying from rooftops, and five soldiers were felled by home-made bombs scattering six-inch nails.

A military spokesman said the soldiers fired after the rioters, mostly young people, ignored an army warning to disperse. Four rioters hit by rifle fire were dragged away by their comrades, and an army officer said: "We have no means of knowing whether they were killed or badly wounded."

CONFRONTATION EXISTS

Before the latest outbreak the death toll in two years of Northern Ireland strife stood at 45. But what began as a Catholic campaign for civil rights in the Protestant-dominated country now has become a direct confrontation between the British Army and IRA extremists seeking to unite Ulster by force with the predominantly Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

Sadat Facing Hard Decision

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Anwar Sadat faced today a difficult decision on whether, or how, to extend the Middle East ceasefire which expires Sunday, following an appeal by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

Informed sources here say Egypt now thinks enough time has elapsed to allow for concrete steps toward a total Israeli pullout from Arab lands occupied after the 1967 six-day war.

Washington Holds Out Hand To China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marshall Green, U.S. state department expert on Asian affairs, says the world is too small "not to have mainland China involved in its international discourse and in the resolution of its problems." The statement by the assistant secretary of state is the latest in a series of Nixon administration overtures for improving relations with Communist China.

Penticton Man Faces Trafficking Trial

REGINA (CP) — Kasim Kowalski of Penticton, was committed for trial following a hearing in provincial magistrate's court on a charge of possessing LSD for the purpose of trafficking. Police said they laid the charge after seizing 500 tablets of LSD Dec. 16. Trial date was set for the April sitting of district court.

Tunnel's Collapse Kills Matsqui Boys

MATSQUI (CP) — Two young boys died here when a tunnel they were digging collapsed on them. Police said the two friends, aged 9 and 10, had been tunnelling into unsettled earth under the veranda of a house while the basement was being enlarged. Names were withheld.

Saigon Claims Major Victory

The Trudeaus Take To Skis

ALTA LAKE, B.C. (CP) — Pierre and Margaret Trudeau planned to get an early start on the ski slopes today, making the most of a short honeymoon at Whistler Mountain, 90 miles north of Vancouver.

The newlyweds skied three hours Friday afternoon, riding an enclosed gondola and an open chairlift to the top of Whistler's ski slopes at 6,000 feet. The area was Canada's bid for the 1976 Winter Olympics.

It was foggy and snowing but Mr. Trudeau said it was "very good skiing," adding that his wife Margaret, 22, was the better skier of the two.

She replied, laughing: "It's not true, it's not true." They were accompanied by Jack Bright, 32, manager for Garibaldi Lifts, which operates the lifts and twos on the mountain. He said the prime minister was skiing much better than when he was here a year ago.

Mrs. Trudeau had a season pass and skied most weekends on the mountain. The couple stayed at a cabin owned by Margaret's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair of West Vancouver. Both seemed in high spirits after coming off the mountain late Friday afternoon. Mr. Trudeau joked with a crowd of reporters and photographers, pretending to limp and grinning when someone asked whether he had hurt his leg.

On arriving at the base of the mountain at noon Friday, Mr. Trudeau was in good humor. He said his marriage Thursday was his "first centennial project," referring to the centennial this year of B.C.'s entry into Confederation.

"Now that you've married a West Coast lady, can we expect you out here more?" one reporter asked him.

"Oh, sure," the prime minister replied. "During centennial year I will be out a lot. This is my first centennial project."

Congratulations came to their cabin from around the world. Queen Elizabeth sent a telegram: "My warmest regards on your marriage. I send both of you my best wishes."

Messages of congratulations also came from Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener and from Denmark's ambassador to Canada, Arne Borge Andersen, dean of the Ottawa diplomatic corps.

Psychiatric Patients Trapped And 28 Killed In Clinic Blaze

ZURICH (AP) — Twenty-eight patients, trapped by smoke and grilled windows, died today in a night fire in the largest psychiatric clinic in this Swiss city.

An electric radiator which ignited paper in a waste basket was blamed by police as the initial cause of the disaster.

Most victims died on the first floor, suffocating in dense smoke. The bodies of seven others were recovered from the ground floor, including that of a 43-year-old man from another wing who was trying to save them.

Zurich District Prosecutor Theo Mangold told a news conference the wall-in window grilles made escape impossible. He said they also kept nurses from entering the bedroom from the outside as smoke barred inside access by the rescuers.

The grilles were to be removed in the modernization recently begun.

The fire started in the room of a male night nurse who left his room to make his early-morning rounds. When he came back and saw the fire he immediately tried to phone for help but the telephone did not work, Mangold quoted him as saying.

He grabbed a hose to fight the fire but forgot to turn on the water. Mangold said the guard also failed to see a foam extinguisher fixed to a nearby wall.

Six Sentenced To Firing Squad

MOSCOW (AP) — A court in the Ukraine sentenced six policemen to death before a firing squad Friday for collaboration with Nazi occupation troops during the Second World War. The Soviet news agency Tass named a former chief of district police, and five officers.

CURLING CHAMPS ONCE MORE

Duguid Sweeps It Again!

QUEBEC (CP) — Don Duguid of Winnipeg led his Manitoba rink to its second consecutive Canadian curling championship Saturday afternoon with an 11-4 win over Northern Ontario's Bill Tetley from Thunder Bay.

N. Ont. 101 002 010 100 — 6 Manitoba 000 210 303 020 — 11 Duguid emerged from a three-rink, two-round playoff to win the Macdonald's Brier Trophy and the right to defend the world championship he won last year. This year's world competition begins at Megeve, France, in one week's time.

Duguid was a member of the 1963 championship rink under skip Terry Braustein, but for third Rod Hunter, second Jim Pettapiece and lead Woody Wood. It was a second title.

Tetley was the only member of his Thunder Bay rink to have previous experience in the championship. That was in 1957. However, Tetley's third and second, brothers Sandy and Jim Sargent, are sons of a former championship competitor, Frank Sargent.

Key Town On Ho Chi Minh Trail Falls To Troops With 'Umbrella'

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese infantrymen under an umbrella of United States bombers and gunships captured the key Laotian town of Sepone today and cut the Ho Chi Minh Trail network around it, Saigon headquarters announced.

Lt. Col. Tran Van An, the chief South Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon, called a special news conference to announce what he termed a victory.

"Today on March 6 at 1 p.m.," An said, "Vietnamese armed forces units have attacked and seized Sepone after inflicting heavy losses to the enemy."

He said 283 North Vietnamese troops were killed in and around Sepone today, many of them by heavy U.S. air strikes. By nightfall, he said, the North Vietnamese troops, elements of the veteran 320th Division, withdrew.

Sepone is the hub in a network of roads on the Ho Chi Minh trail and was considered a major North Vietnamese transshipment point, although U.S. planes long since pounded it into rubble.

An claimed 538 North Vietnamese troops have been killed in two days of heavy fighting in and around Sepone, including 233 outside the town Friday.

South Vietnamese casualties were light, he said.

SEPONE WAS TARGET

Sepone was a major objective of the 27-day-old drive into Laos. It lies along Highway 9 intersecting the Ho Chi Minh trail at a point 25 air miles west of the South Vietnamese border.

Other helicopters encountered heavy anti-aircraft fire while ferrying 1,000 South Vietnamese reinforcements to join 1,000 already near Sepone. Field reports said the reinforcements moved to the high ground north of the North Vietnamese transshipment point. The others had seized the area south of the town.

The magnitude of the U.S. air support of the operation was underscored in a U.S. communiqué that reported more than 2,400 helicopter missions into Laos Friday, double the number flown in any other day during the 27-day campaign. More than half of the missions were troop lifts, leapfrogging South Vietnamese soldiers around in new mobile tactics put into use three days ago.

Talks Commence On Berlin Visits

BERLIN (AP) — West Berlin negotiators went through the Communist wall into East Berlin today to begin talks aimed at obtaining Western visiting privileges for West Berliners. If granted, the visits would be their first access to East Berlin since 1958.

Ulrich Mueller, chief of the city government's chancery, represented Mayor Klaus Schütz of West Berlin at the talks. Leading the Communist side was Gunter Kohr, East Germany's deputy foreign minister.

Mueller told reporters at the wall that it was "far too early to tell" if the talks would result in agreement. "We are going to East Berlin at the direction of the governing mayor first to examine the proposals of the other side," he said.

The opening of East-West Berlin negotiations came a day after the Soviet Union and West Germany reported "good progress" in the first round of talks on a new trade and economic co-operation agreement.

They were rounded up in a series of dawn raids less than 24 hours after the boy, gagged and shivering, was left at the bottom of a cliff after the kidnappers had collected the ransom left hanging in a suitcase from a bridge.

The boy was kidnapped Monday, the second time in 14 months that he was abducted.

REPRESENTS CITY

Serina Sandana, 17, of Joe Riche Road, a Grade 10 Rutland Secondary student, will represent Kelowna in the Okanagan finals for Miss Teenage Canada contest to be held in Vernon tonight. There will be a $15 award for the Okanagan in the provincial finals in Vancouver later this month.

The contest, sponsored by an international soft drink company, saw 25 girls enter locally. This number was cut to four by four judges (three men and one woman). The four girls were introduced to the public at Friday's junior hockey game in Kelowna.

Miss Sandana is also the Kelowna candidate for this year's Lady of the Lake contest.

Family Flees Rutland Fire

A young Rutland family and their three-year-old child escaped serious injury when fire destroyed their home today.

Fire department officials said the blaze, of undetermined origin, began in the front room and spread through the small frame bungalow.

Officials said the alarm was received at 7:03 a.m.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Miller, of 1085 Black Mountain Road, were asleep when the fire began.

They were able to reach safety. Officials said no estimate of damage to the building and loss of contents was available.

The home was termed a "complete loss."

All out was sounded at 8:55 a.m.

Sharp Has 'Good Discussion' Before 2-Week Africa Tour

LONDON (CP) — Canadian External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp had what he called "a good discussion" with Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith Saturday prior to the minister's departure for a two-week tour of Africa, beginning Sunday.

Sharp refused to elaborate, saying only that "general Commonwealth matters" had been discussed.

He added the issue of British arms sales to South Africa is currently too controversial in Britain to allow him to make a statement while here in an unofficial capacity.

Sharp had a one-day stopover in Britain before leaving for Ivory Coast, Nigeria, Congo-Kinshasa, Tanzania and Zambia.

In Nigeria, Tanzania and Zambia, the question of British arms sales to South Africa and its effect on their future membership in the Commonwealth is expected to be a major discussion point.

Prime Minister Heath announced last week that Britain would sell seven helicopters to South Africa.

Since then, Nigeria, India and Malaysia have withdrawn from the eight-country Commonwealth study group established in Singapore to study security matters affecting the Indian and South Atlantic oceans.

Health's contention that Britain must have a free hand to sell naval equipment to South Africa is based on what he considers a potentially dangerous Russian naval activity in its waters.

Iranian Embassy Denies U.S. Aid

LONDON (Reuters) — The Iranian embassy here denied Friday that the United States has granted any military aid to Tehran. The denial followed a statement Tuesday by state department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey which referred to increases in American military assistance to Iran.

Davis Reveals New Rules For Fishing Off Canada

Beginning next Wednesday, no nation can establish a new fishery inside Canada's 12-mile fishing zone, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis announced Friday. He also told the Commons that nations with traditional fishing rights in Canada will not be allowed to step up their activities. Mr. Davis also announced a phasing-out of traditional foreign fishing operations beginning Wednesday.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home said Friday Britain will confine any future arms sales to South Africa strictly to the defence of the Cape Sea routes. He reiterated in London that Britain could not tie the question of arms supplies to the existence of the eight-nation study group on oceanic defence set up by the Commonwealth summit conference in Singapore.

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Friday in Ottawa the Athabasca Delta might be saved from drying out if the British Columbia government would flood it once a year from the lake behind the W. A. C. Bennett Dam on the Peace River. But even with yearly flooding, a dam controlling the water level in Lake Athabasca could wreak environmental havoc.

Mr. Davis, who is to be head of the government's proposed department of the environment, told the Canadian Wildlife Federation that the Bennett dam coupled with too little precipitation have dangerously lowered water levels in the delta.

Hanoi's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, who boycotted the weekly meeting of the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, talked with a group of 170 Americans for three hours Friday about how to end the war.

John Scott Guyot, 18, of Penitence died in hospital Friday after being injured Thursday night in a two-car collision in the Okanagan city.

Edward McCaffrey, 28, was hauled from the prisoner's dock in Ottawa spitting and cursing after receiving a 20-year jail term for manslaughter Friday.

McCaffrey had been charged with the non-capital murder of Wayne Turcotte, 21, of Ottawa, Prince Edward Island's Buffalo herd is thriving and may even multiply this spring. Lorne Bonnell, minister of tourism for the island province told the legislature in Charlottetown Friday the total cost of maintaining the 20-animal herd at Montague during the winter months has been "four bales of hay and five gallons of crushed grain a day." The animals were brought to the province as a tourist attraction last spring from Alberta.

Canadian-born Prof. Charles MacInnes, who overcame blindness to become one of Britain's most eminent historians, died Friday after a heart attack in Bristol. He was 79. MacInnes was blinded after an attack of measles in childhood. He was a member of Bristol University for more than 50 years and was its emeritus professor of imperial history. He was born in Calgary. His wife died two years ago. They had one son.

A 22-year-old man, convicted of four counts of armed robbery, one each of kidnapping and confining and possession of a restricted weapon, was sentenced to 25 years in jail Friday by Provincial Court Judge Maurice Mulligan in Vancouver. "There is only one place for you, lengthy incarceration in a maximum security prison," said Judge Mulligan when sentencing Kenneth Uwins, of no fixed address. "You are undoubtedly the most dangerous criminal ever to come before me."

A 30-year-old Saanich notary public pleaded guilty Thursday in Victoria provincial court to two charges of theft by conversion involving 42 counts totaling $156,439. Judge William Osler remanded William Edward Williams to March 18 for pre-sentence report and sentence. Amounts in the 42 counts ranged from $28 to $23,463, the offences covering a period from November 1969 to February 1970.

Six Doukhobor women have failed in their appeal against conviction for arson arising from the burning of John Verigin's home near Grand Forks, B.C. last June. B.C. Court of Appeal judges in Vancouver upheld county court Judge L. S. Gansner's convictions of Mary Malakoff, Tina Jmaeff, Mary Astafroff, Pauline Hadikin, Tania Ostrikoff and Anna Kootnikoff. The women were jailed for from 18 months to four years.

Negotiations in the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada's contract dispute at Gold River, B.C. continued Friday under mediator Gus Leonidas after his term had been extended for a week. The mediation talks were ordered by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson last month and Mr. Leonidas' first extension ran out Thursday night.

Mediators 'Overpaid'

VICTORIA (CP) — An NDP member told the legislature Friday it was "incredible" that the provincial government continues to pay such high salaries to the three members of the mediation commission, whom he called "birds in a gilded cage."

During debate on the spending estimates of the commission, Bob Williams (NDP—Vancouver East) said the trio have not really earned their keep but have been "bungling and contributing" to the labor unrest in the province.

The salaries for the three commissioners are listed in the government's estimates as $42,500 for the chairman, John Parker, and $40,000 each for Pen Baskin and Alistair Pollock. The commission's estimates of $402,500 were passed after 17 minutes of debate, but NDP members refused to support them.

Posh Safari Club Faces Fire Threat

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Fires raging across this drought-stricken country have destroyed 20,000 acres of forest and threatened Friday to reach the posh Mount Kenya Safari Club, vacation spot of kings and presidents, film stars and millionaires. The 13-year-old club was in no imminent danger as thousands of firefighters mobilized across Kenya to fight the fires, which began Monday.

HE'S NOW SLEEK AT 560 POUNDS

VINELAND, N.J. (AP) — James Chasse has lost 195 pounds and gained a career. In two years he has melted down from 755 pounds to a sleek 560.

Now he plans to open a chain of reducing salons where he will show other folks how to get hungry.

In his case, he says, a high protein, fat-free diet did it. His waistline shrank from 102 inches to 66.

His goal is to become a 175-pounder by 1973 and he is confident he will make it.

Once unemployed because of the limited demand for 755-pounders, Chasse, 30, spent six years on welfare.

At the moment he is eastern sea board director for a weight-reducing firm which put him on the right diet track in 1969.

"I'm happy about a lot of things, but most of all because I'm employed and have a purpose."

"Now I can go into a restaurant and have dinner just like everyone else."

VANCOUVER (CP) — Raymond William Dubois, 24, was sentenced to 10 years in jail Friday after he pleaded guilty to the robbery of Schiller's jewelry last September. The court was told that Dubois and three other men, one of whom was armed, forced clerk Hazel Orr into the back of the shop, bound her with tape, and left with $3,500 worth of jewelry and $200 in cash.

EARNINGS OFF
VANCOUVER (CP) — Craigmont Mines Ltd. reported a drop in earnings to $575,000 or 11 cents a share for the first quarter ended Jan. 31, compared with $1,724,000 or 34 cents a share during the same period a year earlier. President R. G. Duthie said that although production had increased, the price of copper had declined, accounting for the drop in net earnings.

Proposed Alaska Oil Pipeline Runs Into Further Setbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed trans-Alaska oil pipeline has suffered a new setback with disclosure of adverse comments from the defence department and even sharper criticism from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Both the corps, in draft comments from its Alaska district office, and the Pentagon, in an official and milder version, noted they could block construction of the pipeline even if the interior department approves it. The corps' Anchorage office, in a report not intended for publication, deals harshly with the potential environmental impact of the pipeline project.

Engineers' criticisms that interior's impact statement may not meet legal requirements could hand pipeline opponents new ammunition to continue legal manoeuvres which already have won them a temporary court injunction against granting pipeline permits.

Pakistani Chief Reverses And Civilian Rule Again Set

KARACHI (AP) — President Mohammed Agha Yahya Khan today ordered Pakistan's National Assembly to convene March 25 to draft a constitution for the country's return to civilian government.

Yahya Khan's decision Monday to postpone the assembly indefinitely led to five days of violence in the suburbs of Dacca, East Pakistan's primary city. Witnesses reported at least 20 persons died Friday in clashes between security forces and demonstrating workers. Dacca was reported calm early today.

"As chief martial law administrator, I feel duty bound to resolve this impasse myself," the president said in a 15-minute speech read in English over Radio Pakistan. "I can't wait indefinitely."

Although the original assembly was scheduled last Wednesday in Dacca, Yahya's broadcast did not mention a location for the March 25 meeting. Yahya put off the constitutional assembly after West Pakistan's political leader, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, threatened that the delegates of his People's party would boycott the session.

OPPOSES DEMANDS
Bhutto said his party opposes demands by Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, East Pakistan's political leader, for greater autonomy for the eastern half of the nation, separated from West Pakistan by 1,000 miles of Indian territory. Mujibur's Awami League holds the majority of assembly seats.

U.S. Embassy Hit In Colombo

COLOMBO (Reuter) — About 150 Maoist demonstrators attacked the U.S. embassy in this Ceylonese city with gasoline bombs today and burned two cars and damaged five more before being driven off by police. No embassy staff were hurt in the attack.

The demonstrators left hundreds of leaflets scattered around the embassy grounds. The leaflets, printed in red by an organization calling itself the Mao Youth Front, read: "American murderers get out of Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos," and "The people of Indochina, we are with you" as well as other slogans.

The sources said a police inspector was stabbed and another assaulted with a bag of rocks during the melee in which the crowd also threw rocks, bottles and pieces of iron at the embassy building after scaling surrounding walls.

Police sources said two persons were arrested.

B.C.'s Mining Industry Hurt By Planned Tax Legislation

VANCOUVER (CP) — Proposed new federal and provincial tax legislation will result in a serious erosion of the capability of mining and other basic industries to create jobs and revenue, the president of the British Columbia Mining Association said here.

T. H. McClelland, also president of Placer Developments Ltd., expressed the industry's discontent with apparent inconsistencies in government policy in an address to a luncheon marking the association's 50th anniversary.

At the same time, he said, the government enjoys co-operation from government departments in fields outside tax policy.

"It is the stated policy of the federal and provincial governments to combat present and projected unemployment," he said.

"Without much ado various plans have been introduced including subsidies to various industries—but not mining—and to depressed areas and disadvantaged citizens."

"At the same time, these governments introduce proposed new tax legislation which must inevitably result in a serious reduction and erosion of the job and revenue creating capability of mining and other basic industry."

He said the mining industry in B.C. is presently committed to a $500 million expenditure on new projects, most of them to be under way by 1972, which are expected to create by 1975 at least 14,000 new jobs in B.C. and 35,000 new jobs in Canada as a whole. This is apart from the construction jobs and is all from the private sector.

At present, directly and indirectly, the mining industry employs 42,000 in B.C. and 137,000 in Canada. Referring to "unrealistic" tax policies, Mr. McClelland said that a proposed amendment to the Yukon Quartz Mining Act will increase royalties as much as 300 per cent and put some operators in the position of paying combined income taxes and royalties of 65 per cent, if white paper federal tax abatements are not applied in the territories.

"We do not fault the government for consistency," he added. "These tax measures are consistent with policy of taxing for immediate revenue purposes without consultation and without due regard for long term consequences."

IT'S ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU WONDER

The on again-off again season being experienced by the Department of Highways is indicated in this scene as snowplow operator Cy Walsh ponders whether to put the snowplows on his vehicle again. Recent mild weather resulted with the plows being removed then re-attached last weekend. With today's snowfall, there is a problem of wondering if the amount of precipitation again warrants the use of the plows. Roads in the Kelowna area were wet and slippery. (Courier Photo)

The Mysteries Of Math Revealed For Adults

The continuing adult education and recreation series sponsored jointly by the Kelowna department of recreation and School District 23 (Kelowna) will feature elementary mathematics for parents Tuesday.

The three-session course will be under instructor Am Corrado. The program will continue Thursday with two one-session courses in oriental cuisine under Fumi Ono at Rutland Secondary School at 7:30 p.m. The same date will accommodate the first of a three part series of adventure and travel in British Columbia at Kelowna Secondary School at 7:30 p.m.

The film presentation on that date will include "East One, West One," of Trans-Canada Highway; "Kootenay Lake Holiday" and "Legend of the West" (Cariboo, Chilcotin areas) and "Ski B.C."

Subsequent film showings in the same film series will be presented March 18 with "Echoes of Gold" (Barkerville area); "Highlights of Highway 16", Peace River and "A Place of Refuge" (East Kootenay area).

The series will continue March 25 with "Big Game Camera Holiday" (Tweedsmuir area), "Land of the Overlanders" (Yellowhead route), "Land of the Red Goat" (northern B.C.) and "Vancouver Island."

Monday, March 15, will begin with a one-session course in over-tree sprinkling and irrigation clinic at Kelowna Secondary School, and Bishop dressmaking sessions on stacks at Bely's Dry Goods, Westbank, at 9:15 p.m. The same course will continue March 17 at Kelowna Secondary School at 7:30 p.m.

A one-session course in greenhouse operation for the amateur will be held March 18 at the city greenhouse on Raymond Avenue at 7:30 p.m. The same date will accommodate a six-session course in charming woman at Kelowna Secondary School at 7:30 p.m.

Cutting children's hair is the object of a four-session course at KSS March 17, with housewife's college that same date and every Wednesday at the First United Church from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. The latter will be held Sundays at Immaculate High School at the same hours.

The same date will feature a regionalism and boosterism panel discussion at KSS at 7:30 p.m.

Oriental cuisine will return March 18 at Westbank and George Pringle Secondary schools at 7:30 p.m., with charm for teens featured at KSS at the same hour.

A seminar on marital conflicts is slated for March 19 at the Capri from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Unless otherwise specified, all courses will be held at KSS at 7:30 p.m. Further information on courses or to register is available at 2-4891.

Men And Women To Attend Cancer Forum Next Sunday

The story of one of the "greats" in cancer prevention will be told March 14 in the Kelowna Community Theatre.

During a forum sponsored by Kelowna branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, a film will be shown on the life of the man who developed the pap test, a test is used for cancer of the cervix.

It will be the premier showing of the film in Canada.

Also shown will be a film on Dr. Robert Noble, a Canadian doctor who discovered a drug used for leukemia and Hodgkin's disease. Dr. Noble, doing research at the University of British Columbia, spoke in Kelowna in 1959.

After the films, Dr. Hector Moir, local surgeon, will lead a panel of medical experts who will answer questions from the audience. For the first time the forum will be open to men and women. This is being done in the hope that men will realize this disease affects both sexes equally.

Admission is free, but is restricted to adults. The program starts at 2 p.m.

Revs. R. D. Anderson and F. L. Flynn will officiate with interment in St. Theresa's Catholic Cemetery.

RUTLAND CHAMBER TO ACT . . .

Apparent Drug Abuse Creating 'Some' Concern

By JIM BENTEN
Courier Staff

An RCMP spokesman admitted this week the drug abuse problem in the Kelowna-Rutland area has become "bad."

The spokesman, a specialist in narcotics law enforcement with the Kelowna RCMP detachment, which has jurisdiction over drug matters in Rutland and outlying areas, said additional officers may be needed to deal with the problem.

He was commenting on a statement issued this week by the Rutland Chamber of Commerce expressing concern over what it called "the continued permissive use of drugs, and the lack of control for handling the problem of drug abuse."

The Chamber said it plans to draft a number of resolutions dealing with the drug problem, to be presented at the annual meeting of the B.C. Chamber of Commerce, to be held in Kelowna on June 6, 7 and 8.

Rutland Chamber president Fred Stevens said the resolutions would be aimed at drug pushers and heavy abusers, rather than at casual users.

He said the chamber particularly wishes to express its concern over leniency now being shown by the courts towards pushers and heavy abusers.

However, a spokesman for Rutland Junior - senior high, meanwhile, said drug abuse doesn't seem widespread in his school.

"As far as I'm concerned the heat is off us," he stated. "There's no situation I know of in which students are taking drugs."

But several students at the school said drug abuse there is extensive. They said a number of pupils even attend school "on a high."

A grade eight non-drug user who attends the Rutland school said she was an exception. She said at least half of her classmates were regular drug users. But she said most drug use was confined to the smoking of marijuana.

She said she had been tempted several times to smoke marijuana, which she claimed is readily available, but was afraid she might become "hooked" on the drug.

A grade nine student at the school said it was "stupid" to believe anyone could become addicted to marijuana. She said marijuana has been widespread enough in Rutland to prove otherwise. She herself had used it several times and was not "hooked," she stated.

But while several students at schools in Rutland and Kelowna defended the so-called "soft" drugs, particularly marijuana and hashish, many of them warned "hard" drug use is on the upswing.

One grade 10 student at Kelowna Secondary school said there is a possibility some students may start using heroin. He said he knows of some students who now use the drug.

A non drug using grade nine student at the school said three young people in her class were "shooting speed."

To "shoot" means to inject by needle.

When drug users inject "speed" into their bloodstreams they are using any number of drugs resembling the amphetamines and barbiturates, pills which accelerate normal body processes. They are also risking their lives, since the life expectancy of a "speed freak," according to doctors, is about six years.

The mayor of Rutland Teen Town, Gary Spencer, said most Rutland teenagers had tried drugs. But he said the problem had "levelled itself off."

"We haven't had any problems with drugs at the school itself," he said. "By that I mean the operation of the school has not been affected. But I would not for a minute claim drugs are not used by students who come here."

DEPENDING WHO

Peter McLoughlin, supervising principal of Kelowna Secondary school, said estimates of soft drug use at his school "vary depending on which student you talk to."

"The range of soft drug abuse is hard to pin down, said the administrator. "One student will tell me 80 per cent of the students are smoking marijuana, then another student will tell me 10 per cent of the students smoke pot. In another case it depends upon who his immediate circle of friends are."

Mr. McLoughlin said the school did a survey to determine the extent of marijuana experimentation by students. But he said it turned out the school was just "playing games."

Students aren't stupid. They know there's a law against marijuana use. They're not going to admit they smoke pot."

He said the school started an educational preventive campaign against drug use three years ago. Films and guest speakers were used in the campaign. There was no way of measuring its effectiveness, however.

Mr. McLoughlin said the gen-

BIG WHITE ROAD NOT FOR GARBAGE

Residents dumping garbage alongside Big White Mountain Road can be charged under the anti-litter act or the health act, say Kelowna officials.

Contacted Friday about the reported incidence of garbage littering beside the road leading to the popular ski facility, Dr. D. A. Clarke, medical health officer, said violators could be charged under the health act as well as anti-litter legislation.

The biggest problem was "identifying" offenders he said, adding complaints should be made to his office or the local RCMP. "We'd be happy to check it out."

District engineer, A. L. Freebairn, described the situation as a "continual problem" each year. "We're definitely against it," he said, adding the offenders run the risk of court action if caught.

Song Contest About Kelowna For Centennial

If you've got a tune kicking around your musical senses, that could be coupled with lyrics about Kelowna, the city wants to hear about it.

In fact, a special Mayor's Queen's visit committee is sponsoring a Centennial song contest to inspire would-be tunesmiths to come up with a simple winning melody which might be used when the Queen visits the city May 6, or for any occasion during Centennial year.

Songs submitted for judging must be in writing and include the melody in transcript, guitar chords and lyrics. All entries should be mailed to J. G. McKinley, music supervisor of School District 23 (Kelowna) at 599 Harvey Ave. Judges will include musical directors of the schools.

Submissions should be made no later than March 31.

SEEN and HEARD

Kelowna Ald W. J. C. Kane has again been mentioned in Dogwood Trails, the trade publication of the British Columbia Motels, Resorts and Trailer Parks' Association's February issue. This is the second time he has been mentioned in the journal. The last time was in December when the group disagreed with statements attributed to Ald. Kane about the value of the tourist dollar in the community. "I only hope someone from the organization contacts me to verify my statements before quoting me," he says.

The claim that Rutland has a warmer climate was staunchly proven by one resident of the "bench" town on Friday. A woman was observed on Highway 33 in Rutland, wearing short shorts, with bare legs. As a compromise gesture to the chilly breeze, she also wore a Cowichan sweater.

The Kelowna One Alone Club will hold a dance today at 8 p.m. at Centennial Hall. The group is aimed at divorced, widowed and separated people in the city and district. Regular meetings of the club are held on the third Thursday of each month in the library boardroom.

Sign on Highway 97 North: Trudeau married, women's lib scuttled.

YUM YUM

The third performance of Under the Yum Yum Tree, by the Kelowna Little Theatre, will continue to delight audiences today at the Kelowna Community Theatre. Show time is 8:15. The fourth showing will be Sunday.

WANTED BY DISTRICT . . .

New Proposal For City Dump

The Regional District of Central Okanagan will ask city council to appoint two members to meet with the regional district to draft another agreement on the Glenmore land fill site.

At the board's meeting Wednesday, chairman W. C. Bennett said two members from the regional district would be appointed to the joint committee.

Mr. Bennett was commenting on a report from the city council the regional board "live up" to a proposed garbage dump agreement in the Glenmore area with the city "or stop using" the city's land fill operation site.

At Monday's council session, aldermen were told under current and increasing use by the district, the dump would only serve for another five years and the district, as stipulated in the agreement, has done "nothing" to arrange an alternative.

The agreement, in the form of a contract as yet unsigned by the district, provides for a 50-50 split in operation costs with the district assisting in providing alternative sites within a reasonable economic distance from the city.

However, at that time, the region was not authorized to enter into such an agreement. Since then, such approval has been received and a contract submitted in November.

In the meantime, the region has been using the dump and council approved a move to forward a $32,461 garbage dump bill to cover the region's share of last year's costs.

Ald. W. J. C. Kane later told The Courier two issues are involved, a short-term situation, and a long-term study.

"Ald. Richard Stewart and myself, along with four others, are involved in a long-term study concerning regional matters," he said.

"Garbage disposal is one of the areas being discussed and ultimately there could be an incinerator, which would offer an extension to the land fill operation."

This is only a proposal to be looked at.

The second concern, of short term regards the request from Mr. Bennett to form a committee to reassess the present agreement.

Ald. Kane said the board is requesting alterations in the contract presented in November.

Young Cub Leader Receives Honors

James Cronin, 18, the youngest cub leader in Canada to receive the Gilwell pack training award, senior qualification available for cub leaders, was honored by fellow cubs and scouts Thursday.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cronin, 2444 Gore St., worked three years to complete and receive his Gilwell scroll, signed by Governor-General Michener; his neckerchief from J. A. Norman, scout executive, Vernon, and beads from Gwyn Russell, regional commissioner.

James, who is currently studying forest technology at Prince George College, came to Kelowna five years ago and served with the 7th Kelowna Scout Troop and Venturer Company.

Others receiving their Gilwell pack awards were Wilfred Ackerland, Samuel Close, Florence Hornback Gerald, Lloyd and Bertram Deeter with a scout Gilwell award presented to Gerald Gilkinson.

Robert Clarkson received his national neckerchief from his mother, Mrs. Anita Clarkson, district cubmaster.

The first Glenmore cub pack received first place for the best window display during Boy Scout Week; First South Kelowna group received the group committee charter; five year pins presented to Samuel Close, L. Blanke, Thomas Milnes, Harold Nagel, Marion Furman, Anne Purfield and Ivan Spletzer.

Ten year pins went to Wilfred Ackerland while district cub commissioner C. A. Colk received a 15-year pin. Harold Willet was awarded a 20-year pin and Ted Salmon a 25-year pin. All are from Kelowna.

Snow Foils Park Hopes

Knox Mountain Park, closed for the season last November, may be re-opened for public use later this month.

But the weatherman doesn't seem to be co-operating, says city engineer V. G. Borch.

"We had a look at it during the past week and it is still icy at the top," he said.

Mr. Borch said he hoped to have the park opened by the end of the month, but that would have to wait until the park was "completely clear."

He added current snowfall isn't helping matters much in regard to an early opening.

Will Honor Long Service

About 98 members of the Kelowna branch, Royal Canadian Legion, will receive long-service pins tonight in an award ceremony, says branch president A. J. Barnes.

Beginning with a social hour at 5:30 p.m., the ceremony will see members awarded with 25-30 year pins, 35-40 and one 45-50 year pin.

In conjunction with the awards, new members will be initiated.

Wives and guests are invited.

Snow, Rain . . . Winter

Skies should be mostly cloudy over the Central Okanagan this weekend as an on-shore flow of cool Pacific air from a maritime disturbance continues to dominate the weather pattern.

Snow today was expected to change to rain by tonight or Sunday.

Friday's high was 36, the overnight low 20 with a trace of snow.

Low tonight and high Sunday should be 28 and 35.

SORORITY NAMES CHOICE

Representing Beta Sigma Phi sorority in the 1971 Lady of the Lake contest is Janie Freeborn, 17, Grade 12 student at Dr. Knox Secondary School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Freeborn of Benvoulin Road. The 5'6" girl, weighing 130 pounds, was born in Kelowna. She specializes in sciences, with hopes of becoming a home economics teacher or a merchandising advisor. Janie likes all sports, particularly riding and horseback skiing. With her is Mrs. Mayne McCutcheon, sorority president.

. . . DROP-IN CENTRE RECOMMENDED

Apparent Drug Abuse Creating 'Some' Concern

Laurence Taylor, dean of Kelowna Centre, Okanagan College, said soft drug users at the college appear to him to have reached "a point of sophistication."

BALANCED USE

"By sophistication, I mean they know how to work soft drugs into their daily lives," he said. "They know, for instance, what marijuana can do, and just like people who drink alcohol, they've achieved a certain balanced use."

Mr. Taylor also said student drug use had not upset the daily functioning of the college. For this reason, college officials have not really been concerned with the problem.

"We haven't concerned ourselves with drug use because we like to treat the students as adults, and as individuals," he said. "If there ever came a time when student drug use has detrimental effects on the functioning of the college then we may take action."

He said hard drug use doesn't appear to be prevalent at the college. However, he said this may be due to the geographical isolation of this area.

"I know in Vancouver hard drugs seem to be used widely. It could be this area has escaped this because of its distance from Vancouver and other urban centres. However, it might just be behind Vancouver, and not different from it," he said.

Rex Marshall, director of FISH, a local telephone referral centre which directs those needing social or psychological help to interested professionals, said the Kelowna and Rutland areas definitely have a need for a drop-in centre to handle young people who may need immediate aid. For example, a teenager "bad tripping," under the influence of LSD.

Mrs. Paul Robinson, wife of Rev. Paul Robinson of the Anglican Church, Central Okanagan Region, said her husband "would be glad" to create a centre to deal with drug abuse. Last summer Rev. Robinson helped to establish a hostel for transient youth at St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church.

"The drug abuse problem in this area is much worse than people are willing to admit," she said. "But there are absolutely no facilities here to deal with the problem."

Mrs. Robinson said an honest approach is needed to deal with drug abuse. She described most attempts taken so far to deal with the problem as "alarmist."

great drug abuse problem in this area," he said. "Most of the kids have tried drugs, either LSD or marijuana, and they have reached a point at which they never use them, or they use them infrequently."

The principal of Dorothea Walker Elementary school in Okanagan Mission said he believed students at his school had tried "nothing worse than cigarettes."

"As far as we're concerned we don't even have a smoking problem," said Mr. James Day. Mr. Day suggested drug use had not yet become a problem at the school because of the age of students, eight to 14 years, in grades three to seven, and because the school is in a rural area.

"I'm sure we don't have the problem here because our school is in the country," he said. "Of course, I'm not sure you could say that about schools in Kelowna."

The principal of Glenmore Central Elementary school in Kelowna, Donald Brand, said drug use had not affected his school.

"We haven't had any problems with drugs at the school itself," he said. "By that I mean the operation of the school has not been affected. But I would

Both Adults And Youth Seek Solid Foundation

Many of the profound truths in life are very simply related. In our complex way of life, one is faced with many theories and philosophies that we tend to overlook—these basic truths as being irrelevant or outdated.

Both adults and youth of our day are searching desperately for solid foundations, something upon which they can build their life and be confident it will remain unmovable, unshakable and unchanging.

Although the cry today is for change and reform this is only surface noise covering up the basic and internal cry of "give me something that will not change; that is secure, that is unquestionable and foundational."

Could it be that basis to all of this is man's cry for peace? Again much noise is made and much motion is produced, and we reach around the world for a philosophy that will give us peace or a government that will produce honest peace; when all of the time we are overlooking the simple, yet profound.

Peace is not found in some preferentially elaborated philosophy or ideology; nor again is it found in well organized government, as good as they may be and to the surprise of some these solid foundations and rest of heart are not found in the church.

It is unquestionable that in man's quest for peace and security he has been misled into believing that these are found in a large accumulation of wealth and well-thought out philosophy of life or a false peace which is only held in line by strong government and force.

In our age long quest we have overlooked the profoundly simple truth that peace is found within the soul of man. Not as the soul relates to itself or to objects or people around him, but to the one who created him. That one is God.

Our great Creator made us to be secure and at peace. However, in His great wisdom, He also made us dependent on Himself for these basics to 'real life.'

He created us with a nature that needs something outside of itself to relate to, and depend on, for inner peace and security. Again that something is God.

In our natural being we are so far from God, how can we relate to Him to find security and peace? Someone has said, 'There is one God and there is one who brings God and man together, the man Christ Jesus.' It would seem then for me to relate to God in any meaningful way, I must first know this man Jesus. Not just a philosophy about Him. Not just to know His teachings but to really 'know' Him. Then truly knowing Him, I must accept Him as master and Lord of my life.

He will never change for He is God. Therefore I have a solid foundation on which to build my life. He is also the source of peace, therefore, if I make Him master and Lord of my life, this will also be my way of life, peace and security.

It is simply getting to know God by relating to Jesus Christ, then producing a meaningful life. Oh yes it is 'profoundly simple,' yet, 'simply profound.' Don't overlook it.

Quebec Press States Views On Assortment Of Events

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal La Presse: Two-and-a-half years after its founding, after making headway in most areas of the province and after gaining the loyalty of "one Francophone in three," the Parti Quebecois is haunted by power. That is why during the weekend it reaffirmed its unflinching attachment to democratic methods and its rejection of all forms of violence and extremism.

Montreal Le Devoir: The annual convention of the Parti Quebecois took place in Quebec City in a climate marked by, to a remarkable extent, a spirit of work, application and participation. At its beginning, the PQ might have seemed like a party of teachers, students and militant intellectuals. That is no longer true. The Quebec City convention brought together delegates from all social backgrounds recruited mainly from citizens between 21 and 40.

Several persons predicted in the last few months that the PQ was going to adopt a more radical orientation from the point of view of nationalism than from the point of view of economic and social issues. Nothing of this sort emerged from the convention. . . . Four or five major themes could have lent themselves to the radicalization expected by certain people. . . . On each of these questions a majority emerged in favor of maintaining the moderate positions adopted at the founding of the PQ.

At the end of the convention, the PQ program remained largely the same. It is an unspectacular but real result. The intellectual growth of the party develops in a homogeneous line: That is not a bad sign. The debate on the linguistic rights of the minority was resolved by a solid, but in no way crushing, victory for the group led by Mr. Levesque. To understand the exact significance of the result, however, it must be placed in the new perspective created by the election of Mr. Pierre Bourque to the party's national executive. . . . The real battle, even if it most frequently shows itself in an undeveloped state, is that which pits Mr. Levesque against Mr. Bourque.

There was a tendency in the circle that directs the party to keep Mr. Bourque at a distance because of errors in talking and behavior for which he was reproached. But it became visible at the convention that the more or less systematic removal of Mr. Bourque risked alienating a sector representing up to a third of the delegates. . . .

On the day after the convention, during which the PQ showed its true face, its electoral prospects can be examined. Even if it is undeniably different from other political parties, even if its democratic spirit is a sure value, it carries with it a radical wing which it can no longer throw off. That is already enough to scare many voters who wonder what could follow independence. It is certain that its opponents will know how to exploit this reality. . . .

In the present political context of Quebec, the separatist party could have counted on the disarray of the Union Nationale to take over the so-called popular spheres which it lacks. The supporters of a UN could have provided Rene

Levesque's party with solid bases in all the social circles of Quebec. The PQ now has chosen the hard way of increasing its votes in rural regions and working-class areas. It cannot, however, be accused of lacking candor or deceiving the population by maintaining a superficial "image."—Claude Gravel (March 1)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Quebec Opposition Leader Jean-Jacques Bertrand has just made a truly spectacular about-face. It may be remembered that Mr. Bertrand supported, without reservation, the decisions of the government during the October crisis. Now, four months later, he suddenly realizes that there is no insurrection, real or apprehended, and there never has been. . . .

Mr. Bertrand perhaps is right to condemn the attitude of the Bourassa government during the October crisis. Besides, he is not alone in wondering, or more often believing, there is no insurrection. . . . Personally, we have the impression that all of this affair was grossly exaggerated. However, we still haven't on hand enough proof to make a valid judgment on the October crisis.

Mr. Bertrand cannot be taken seriously for he has introduced no new element leading to the belief that his profession of faith in October was anything more than the fruit of a cerebral trauma. . . .—Sylvio Saint-Amant (Feb. 26)

Ottawa Le Droit: The speech from the throne delivered . . . in the national assembly by Robert Bourassa, premier of Quebec, made clear once again the priority the government accords to economic development. That was foreseeable. After all, that is the theme which carried the Liberals to power last April and the theme which now must inspire the elaboration of new policies likely to result in employment problems faced by Quebec workers and overcome the current economic restraints. . . .

The session which just opened, the second under the Bourassa regime, is in short the first in which his government can act without being tied to previous decisions made by the former government. The era of transition is ended and Mr. Bourassa could have marked this "passing" by presenting the Quebec population with a fuller and more precise program than the collection of good intentions he gave us. The psychological effect might have been more advantageous for the party in power. . . .

But Mr. Bourassa decided to use the traditional formula and that is his right. This respect for tradition on the part of the government does not justify . . . the attitude of the Parti Quebecois which demanded an emergency debate on unemployment before Mr. Bourassa even spoke. . . .

What a lack of maturity! What illogic to want to contest policies before even knowing their terms! Did simple good sense not dictate listening before replying, familiarizing oneself with the broad outlines of the government's program before judging it? Even if Mr. Bourassa's speech was not as explicit as we would have liked, it contained several promising elements which will be beneficial for the Quebec economy. . . .

At the same time, Nixon presumably would like Thieu to keep on talking—but only talking—about invading North Vietnam for the effect it might have on Hanoi.

Belief Growing In South Vietnam On Thieu's 'Psychological' War

SAIGON (AP) — There is growing belief in Saigon that President Nguyen Van Thieu is waging a psychological war against North Vietnam—and that he himself doesn't believe all that he is saying. Many observers feel that Thieu did not mean it when he threatened in the last few days to invade North Vietnam. They think he hopes with the threats and veiled threats to throw Hanoi into confusion, possibly into some panic and undoubtedly into anger. . . .

More importantly, by talking about invading North Vietnam, Thieu is forcing Hanoi's generals to commit sizable numbers of troops to defending their coastline and the "invasion route" just above the demilitarized zone. These are troops which Hanoi could well use in Laos, Cambodia or South Vietnam.

Hanoi is angered by Thieu's threats as broadcasts show. American officials, publicly disassociate themselves from Thieu's talk of a "march on the north." But they watch the president's play with private pleasure. . . .

Thieu knows well that he could not send South Vietnamese troops marching into North Vietnam without U.S. support. President Nixon told his news conference Thursday night no plan for such support is under consideration in Washington or has been proposed to him by Thieu. . . .

At the same time, Nixon presumably would like Thieu to keep on talking—but only talking—about invading North Vietnam for the effect it might have on Hanoi.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Russians React To U.S. Moves

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Peking propagandists will find many arguments in recent Soviet commentary to support their view that Russia has become totally non-militant and primarily concerned with its own drive to affluence, American style. The most authoritative Soviet journals have been analyzing U.S. policies, criticizing them and concluding, not as they once did, that the U.S. will seek relief from internal troubles by engaging in foreign adventures but that because of internal troubles, Washington will retreat from involvement in the world scene. This may well be an indication that the Russians also feel they must pay more attention to their own problems which so strangely resemble those of the U.S.

The U.S., say the Russian commentators, will have to turn inward because inflation can only be moderated if war expenditures are cut. While inflation continues, social problems in the U.S. cannot expect well-financed solutions. The people of the U.S. want domestic problems solved more than they want victories in foreign contests. They no longer fear a surprise Communist attack and hope for some stabilization of defence spending so that the environment can be improved and the Negroes somehow pacified.

This sort of Soviet analysis clearly implies tolerance towards what Mr. Nixon is doing in Laos and Cambodia: clearly Moscow believes the U.S. is retreating from Indochina rather than trying to establish a permanent base there. This is directly contrary to the Peking line which maintains that Nixon is still trying to stay in Indochina but at a reduced cost in U.S. lives, that he wants to retain the giant bases in Vietnam from which to operate against the Chinese mainland if need be.

Does this Soviet attitude mean that Moscow is also thinking of reducing its foreign adventures? Is Russia anxious to make peace in the Middle East for instance? One might answer that Russia could not expect the U.S. to retreat from activism on a world-wide scale if Russia were to step up its penetration efforts in the Middle East. On the other hand, one might say that the Russians feel the U.S. is disintegrating internally so fast that it will have to retreat into itself whatever Russia does.

And indeed, Russian commentary treats the Negro problem with immense gloom. A continuing Negro revolution is envisaged with much guerrilla warfare. But there is no suggestion that the U.S. cannot handle such a contingency. On the contrary, Russian commentators speak of "a fascist wave" sweeping the U.S. and suppressing the Negro movement with all the violence necessary. But in the view of these Russian commentators, the American fascists will be isolationists.

Canada's Ambassador To France May Be Next Governor-General

OTTAWA (CP) — There is speculation on Parliament Hill that Leo Cadieux, 62-year-old Canadian ambassador to France, will be named the next governor-general.

The five-year term of the present Governor-General, Roland Michener, expires next year.

Mr. Cadieux was a popular figure with all parties in the Commons, even as defence minister, a post in which popularity is not common. Canada's last French-speaking Governor-General, Gen. Georges Vanier who died in office in 1967, served as Canadian ambassador to France.

The "in" thing on Parliament Hill these days, as elsewhere, is conservation or the environment or ecology or the biosphere or whatever title is used.

Officials in the new environment department say they hope that it endures longer than the last time it was the "now" topic. In 1969, then prime minister Sir Wilfrid Laurier established a Canadian Commission of Conservation on the initiative of Sir Clifford Sifton, minister of the interior.

The commission died of neglect in 1921 and the conservation movement gradually petered out.

But in 1921 the Canadian population was little more than nine million and less than half were urban dwellers. By the year 2000 Canada's population may be 40 million, 94 per cent urban. On this basis alone, officials say, the present concern with conservation should be permanent.

Phil Givens, Liberal MP for York West and former mayor of Toronto, is one of the more frustrated back-benchers in the Commons.

He says good-naturedly that he expected his oratory to set the Commons on fire about urban problems. But he found that practically nobody was listening and, anyway, there were few good speaking opportunities.

Nobody even asks a back-bencher for the correct time, Mr. Givens says.

Along the same lines, Paul St. Pierre, Liberal MP for Coast-Charlottetown, says he had more power as a newspaper columnist than he does as an MP.

There are 78 restaurants or cafeterias in federal buildings in Ottawa, nearly all of them catering to civil servants.

A small group of Conservatives who had talked of forming a "real Conservative party" have apparently dropped the idea and are closing ranks around their leader, Robert Stanfield.

March 6, 1971 . . .

The Alamo at San Antonio, Tex., finally was captured 135 years ago today—in 1836—by Mexican Gen. Santa Anna's forces after 13 days of bitter fighting. No survivors were permitted among the Texans and the victims included the legendary scout Davy Crockett and James Bowie. The Alamo was taken only after all but five of the 180 defenders had been killed; these five were shot as rebels. A month later Santa Anna was defeated at the battle of San Jacinto and Texas won independence.

1862—France and Algeria began meetings aimed at settling details of a ceasefire to end 7½ years of war.

1953—Georgi Malenkov, became Soviet premier after Stalin's death.

KLT Situation Very Healthy

By BETHEL STEELE

THURSDAY NIGHT, Kelowna Little Theatre in the Community Theatre, opened its current presentation of Lawrence Roman's 'Under the Yum Yum Tree'—director is Al Fentiman.

KLT consistently is giving the spoken theatre in Kelowna many new faces on stage as well as new workers back stage. This is as it should be and makes for a very healthy situation.

Mr. Fentiman is proving to be a director worth waiting for and watching. Last year Sneaky Fitch and now Yum Yum Tree.

Yum Yum Tree is a comedy of ideas and satire with a touch of farce. It is well written with some quite clever lines in places. Perhaps the cleverest of all came in the scene between Dave and Hogan when Hogan is insinuating himself into the graces of the new occupants of the apartment.

HOGAN IS going through the motions of watering the flowers even to an empty vase when Dave draws his attention to the fact the flowers are not real and Hogan answers . . . "That's all right . . . the can's empty."

The response of the audience was spontaneous. For the first time in all my years of local play attendance there was clapping in company with the ensuing laughter. The scene was so well done the audience was completely involved with the characters.

THIS SCENE sets the theme of the play—and satirizes it—the unreality of much that goes on in the name of love, in today's culture.

The two male characters are strongly portrayed. Both Mark Felesky and Dale Hooper have the art of projection down to a fine point. Mark Felesky perhaps more consistently than Mr. Hooper. He was never once out of character and built his characterization to a fine climax. Mr. Hooper's Hogan was the funnier of the two. It is that kind of character. But there were times when a touch of exaggeration clouded the fine points of the satire.

The two girls were weaker in projection—perhaps because even though their voices were clear there was little if any attempt at dynamic inflection. They were a bit static in their movement.

BUT THESE are small points which perhaps only professionals might overcome. Otherwise, except for a slightly too slow pace the play romped with much fun and sparkle. The milkman and cab driver were pure farce and were quite well done.

The set was colorful and spacious, well lighted, but why not a rug. One would have been in keeping with the standard of properties used. Sound did not always co-ordinate . . . watch it KLT.

I WAS ENTERTAINED and enjoyed myself but why not something from the classics KLT. Seems to me you are ready. You'll be surprised at how easy they are and what can be learned from them.

PEACHLAND SOCIALS

PEACHLAND (Special) — league at the Peachland curling rink are receiving congratulations on being one of the two rinks in this zone who have qualified for provincial playoffs which will take place in New Westminster on March 28, 29 and 30.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Burns are home again after the weekend spent at the Coast where they had first-hand experience of the inclement weather being felt in that area.

John Coldham is staying at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Coldham, on Buchanan Road, for a week or so, waiting for a new job assignment.

The Robert Dunlop rink, members of the senior curlers

FATHER AND SON — HALIFAX (CP) — Nukhtar Sidhu, 44-year-old junior high school teacher here, and his 21-year-old son Kamal, a university student, combined recently to win the Nova Scotia doubles table tennis championship. Nukhtar also won the men's singles title. The elder Sidhu, who trained nationally ranked players in his native India, has lived in Canada less than two years. His son arrived from his native Punjab state in July, 1970.

Peachland's Rec Group Studies Vital Meeting

PEACHLAND (Special)—Welcoming new commission members and discussion on the zone conference to be held in Peachland this month, were some of the items on the agenda at the March meeting of the Peachland Parks and Recreation commission held Wednesday in the Peachland Recreation Hall. Welcomed to this, their first meeting were Mrs. Carol Gazda and Mrs. Art Kopp.

The zone conference to be held in Peachland all day March 20 was discussed and informational folders given out to all members who will be attending. One of the main items to be discussed at this conference will be regional recreation and the new recreation financing policy of the provincial government; both vital topics to all recreation commissions operating at this time whether in regional districts, or as Peachland, in a municipality, the chairman stated.

Arrangements to cater to meals for the approximately 100 delegates expected to attend have been made Mrs. George Tuck reported, and arrangements for other small matters such as name tags, and for a social hour were made by the meeting.

Mayor Harold Thwaite of Peachland will be invited to the conference to welcome the delegates to the community at the morning session and also to attend the banquet at which William Ireland, provincial archivist will be guest speaker.

GENERAL MEETING

Tom Smith reported a need of a supervisor for youth club activities on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Smith, who has been acting in this capacity, is entering hospital and will be unavailable for approximately six weeks. The age group of boys to be supervised is 6 to 8 year olds who play floor hockey and basketball after school in the community hall. Anyone who could help with this is asked to contact Tom Smith on Don Wilson.

The riding club has approved the 10 year lease for the riding club grounds and executive members will sign this in the near future it was reported.

HEATING TROUBLES — It was brought to the meeting's attention that trouble in Hall custodian James MacKay reported on a meeting of the building and maintenance committee who received six tenders for the custodian's job for both halls administered by the commission. Re-hired was Mrs. Clara Ulbrich, last year's custodian, and Mrs. John Enns on the usual three month trial basis.

Tom Smith, as representative of the Peachland branch of the Kelowna and District Recreational Services, a newly formed club for older citizens in the community, asked for assistance from the commission with finances. He reported on the group's activities to date which has included, social afternoons, a pot luck supper, and a dance.

Now the group is planning bingo night, the first one to be held March 16 in the community hall. He asked for $100 to be a loan to the group but members felt this group should be helped with a donation, rather than a loan. Mr. Wilson said much recreation funds have in the past been spent for other age groups and it was time older citizens got their share. The $100 donation was approved unanimously.

Another new club starting up in the community was reported. This is a stamp and hobby club which is being organized by Mrs. Robert Downie and Kurt Doml. The meeting approved the use of the halls being given to this group free of charge.

Jan Oltmanns, representative on the commission from the youth groups in the community, requested the use of the community hall March 5 for a sock hop for local teen agers. This was granted providing the names of chaperons were given to the chairman prior to the hop. In other youth activities the commission brought up the condition of the hall after Venturers meetings Thursday evening. Mr. Oltmanns was asked to convey to this group that a clean up of the hall is expected after use by the groups not paying rent for use of either halls.

the operation of the heating system in the community hall has been experienced by some groups. A notice on the operation of the furnaces will be posted.

Two applications for jobs as swim instructors this summer were received and passed to Mrs. George Tuck as chairman of the swim committee for their study.

A questionnaire received from the Westbank athletic committee was read. This pertained to the feasibility of building an ice rink in the district to serve Lakeview, Westbank and Peachland needs in this regards.

The committee felt there was a need, but a full arena would cost too much for the population it would serve. A request for more information will be drawn up before the commission fills out questionnaire received.

An extra meeting of the commission just prior to the conference was set, this to be held on Wednesday, March 17 at the recreation hall immediately after the meeting of the Centennial committee.

A Waste Of Time Writing Letters

WARSAW (Reuter) — A post office in Lodz in central Poland delivered about 1,500 letters and postcards, including registered mail, to a waste paper depot instead of to their addressees, a Warsaw newspaper reported. A worker discovered the lost mail and all the letters were later delivered.

A GOOD YEAR

EDMONTON (CP) — The Alberta Crop Insurance Corporation says 1970 was a good year for most grain crops in the province with losses totalling about $1 million compared with $6.5 million in 1969 and $5.5 million in 1968. In 1970 a total of 12,561 Alberta farmers participated in the crop insurance program.

Neighborhood Shopping Plaza Being Planned In Westbank

WESTBANK (Special) — Plans of a proposal to develop a neighborhood shopping plaza in the village of Westbank have been announced. The project is for the development of a 3.8 acre site on Fourth Avenue, one block north of Highway 97 (Main Street) of the village. It is proposed to construct a 30,000 square foot neighborhood centre in two or three stages during the next two to five years; the timing to be dictated by demand and the area growth. Phase one, construction of which is scheduled for this spring and summer is planned to include national and local tenants and services. Negotiations are underway with potential tenants for space in this fully air-conditioned first phase.

In making this announcement, D. G. McConachie, speaking on behalf of the developers, has stressed that commencement is conditional upon Central Okanagan Regional District and Westbank Irrigation District approvals, as well as successful negotiations with the various tenants.

Subsequent phases are planned when demand dictates and it is practical to expand. Special features of the development include, covered promenade along shop fronts, air-conditioning, and much off street parking, the latter becoming a serious problem on the present "strip" or "ribbon" development of the Westbank business district.

The establishment of this concept will change the face of Westbank with the focus of the progress of Westbank shifting from its present ribbon—east-west growth trend to that of a compact north-south development pattern.

Youth Admits Slaying Fiancee

ROME (AP) — A judge's son whose fiancée was disappointed with his poor college grades and wanted to end their eight-year engagement killed the girl by slashing her throat in a Rome boarding house, police reported today.

They identified the youth as Vincenzo de Rito, whose father, Carmine, presides at a court in Santa Severina in southern Italy.

The younger de Rito and the victim, 21-year-old Adelina Nicoletti, had been childhood playmates. She was a first-year university student.

De Rito turned himself in to police Friday night and told them where to find Angelina's body. Police said he confessed that he slashed his fiancée after she told him their courtship was finished.

AMONG THE MANY couples who tried their skill and luck at the games centre in the lower auditorium of the Rutland Centennial hall Friday night during the annual charity ball sponsored by the Kelowna which was thoroughly enjoyed by the patrons and guests is one of many fund raising events sponsored by the auxiliary to raise funds to purchase equipment for the hospital. One of the major items on the list this year is eye surgery equipment. The next fund raising project, which the members have already started preparing for, is the annual Blossom Time Fair. (Courier photo).

Annual Auxiliary Dance Shakes Up A Small Rumble At Rutland

'A Night in Las Vegas' the theme for the annual charity ball of the Kelowna Hospital Auxiliary produced an Okanagan version of the noisy American gambling capital. Animated chatter, excited laughter in the 'Casino Hospitale' where beginners and old 'hands' alike tried their luck at the games of chance and dancing, all added up to a good time in any setting.

The 20th consecutive dinner and dance, sponsored by the Auxiliary, was held this year in the Rutland Centennial hall where a crowd of 400 quickly got into the 'good time' mood with bright modernistic ceiling mobiles, 'mod' black programs, set off with red velvet playing card suits, centering the tables. Red and silver squares framed the stage and formed a backdrop for the Johnny Deschner band.

A roast beef dinner followed the social hour which opened the affair. Head table guests were introduced by auxiliary president, Mrs. W. F. Morton, and included Mayor and Mrs. Hilbert Roth, Dr. and Mrs. G. Thorkelson, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bennett, C. F. Lavery and his daughter Anne, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rampone and W. F. Morton and emcee Roger Tait. Proceeds of the successful event will go towards the auxiliary's major project this year—eye surgery equipment. Back of every success story, there is a hard working committee and in this successful venture, the committee headed by Mrs. Robert Turkik, included co-convenor, Mrs. John Dyck Jr.

Other workers were: publicity, Mrs. Basil Meikle and Mrs. Desmond Morrow; secretary, Mrs. B. Gray; catering, Mrs. Ken Day; decorations, Mrs. G. Jansen; gambling, Mrs. R. Turkik; prizes and favors, Mrs. George Simon and Mrs. D. Leadbetter; tickets, Mrs. H. R. Cookson; entertainment, Mrs. G. Clark and program, Mrs. B. Gray.

The crowd alternated between the dance floor upstairs and the games casino in the lower auditorium, where roulette, crown and anchor, race horse, Under and Over 7 and Chuck Luck, all proved to be fascinating activities for many. One chap with an unusual streak of good luck, had the casino crew worried for a while. Table favors, spot dance prizes, draws and a special auction all added up to a 'fun' night for everyone.

CONTRARY

Clap Your Hands For Tax Free Bonus

By MARY GREER

According to the dictionary, applause means approval or commendation, especially as shown by clapping of hands or shouting and etcetera.

Conversely the lack of applause can be taken as disapproval. When people attend public performances, concerts, dramas, or perhaps an ice show by local performers, I often wonder why so many in the audience seldom applaud. Did they expect top stars from the entertainment world? Can it be that television has numbed them into entertainment dummies? Or do they have no desire to communicate with the performers? Or is it that they feel superior to amateurs?

Recently at the ice carnival I looked around to see how many were applauding and it was a feeble effort. The young skaters were out there doing their best, in spite of what appeared to be heavy ice, plus the opening night jitters. Surely they deserved encouragement. True they were not Donald Jacksons or Petra Burkhas but on the other hand admission was slightly less than an Ice Follies show would be. And who knows, some of the young hopefuls may bring fame to the Valley in a year or two.

When a highly rated television show troupe appears at Regatta in person, the master of ceremonies often has to work hard at warming up the audience and even he, sometimes fails.

I can recall another town, a few years ago, where the majority of the residents also suffered from the H.I.P. disease (Hands in Pockets). A world renowned three-ring circus came to town. The acrobats and jugglers and clowns went through a rather Ho Hum performance; but the next night in another town 30 miles away, where the so-called mining element was a bit more boisterous and more appreciative, the same performers put out with some fantastic dare devil feats. Why? Because that audience applauded them and then applauded some more.

On a more realistic note, if you pay admission for any performance and you want to get your money's worth, try a little applause, it works wonders, you might even get a bonus in enjoyment. One that even the internal revenue department branch can't tax—think of that!

HITHER and YON

Here for a week-long visit is Mrs. D. A. Snowsall and young sons, Brandon and Colin, of Delta, B.C., who are enjoying a holiday with Mrs. Snowsall's mother, Mrs. E. R. Pelly, Lawrence Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Peterson of Douglas Road, Lakeview Heights, have returned from a pleasant holiday at Mesa and Phoenix, Ariz., where they enjoyed the company of old friends, while relaxing in the sun.

Several couples paid a surprise housewarming on Tuesday evening when they called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Watts in their new home on Rhonda Road. A pleasant evening was spent and refreshments, provided by the visitors, were served.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Odegard, Eldorado Road, were their son Gordon from North Vancouver and his friend, Ken Rudy of Red Deer. The two enjoyed some skiing while here, as well as a visit.

One of the most successful exhibitions at the Jack Hambleton Galleries was the showing of Mr. Hambleton's own drawings and paintings of Mexico. More than 100 persons enjoyed the preview of the exhibition which continues for 10 days.

Among out-of-town guests who enjoyed the exhibition and meeting with the artist were: Mrs. R. Kidd of Montreal, Dr. Dale Anderson of Toronto and P. Hubbell of Walkerville, Ont.

From Vancouver was Jack Bentley and Valley residents who were guests at the showing included Mrs. Heather Reach of Kamloops, Mrs. G. Peter and Doris McBean of Salmon Arm and Ken Oliver and Rod Pearson of Naramata.

EAST KELOWNA
East Kelowna people who arrived home recently from snowmobile competitions which took place in Beau Sejour, Man., in the finals for all of Canada include Herman Graf who placed third in the all Canadian 800 class.

In Revelstoke, East Kelowna winners in the racers' class were: Alan Porter, 2nd in 440 class; Brian Porter, 3rd in 440 class, with Michael Graf receiving honorable mention. Alan Porter received the award for the best sportsman of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carswell, McCulloch Road, have recently returned home from a week holiday in Calgary and were happy to see their son, Bernie Carswell before he left for Montreal. He has been transferred by his company. Bernie is Mr. Carswell's son, not brother, as previously reported.

Kiwassa Club Presents Roses

In a surprise ceremony, president, Mrs. E. F. Cooper was presented with a corsage of tiny red roses at the recent meeting of the Kiwassa Club Kelowna. Mrs. F. Griffin presented the farewell token on behalf of the members who also signed a good luck card. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper are leaving Kelowna shortly to reside in Sicamous.

The meeting, held at the home of Mrs. W. Thomas, Lambert Avenue, discussed the 'Wearing O the Green' night to be held in conjunction with the Kelowna Kiwanis Club on March 13 at the Women's Institute hall on Lawrence Avenue.

The rummage sale for March 6 was also discussed, and Mrs. Hilbert Roth reported for Meals on Wheels. She said the service to date had been mainly used by convalescents out of the hospital and that she hoped the general public realized the service was primarily formed to help local senior citizens, especially those living alone, to maintain their home life and on difficult days.

A regular recipient of the service would have the comfort of knowing that a nourishing meal would be arriving at their door, she said. To obtain the service of Meals on Wheels, needs only a telephone call to 763-5030.

The meeting closed with an amusing and profitable blind auction among the members. The March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Harwood Wightman, 2051 Keller Place.

Hall Auxiliary Discuss Plans For Spring Dance, Plant Sale

EAST KELOWNA (Special)—The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the hall board was held at the hall on March 4 with 18 members present.

Following the usual business it was decided to appoint Mrs. Charles Ross for publicity and Mrs. Tony Wijkik for advertising.

Considerable discussion followed regarding the spring dance, plant sale and the wedding receptions in the East Kelowna hall. These will be finalized at future meetings.

The next meeting will be on April 8 at the East Kelowna hall. Members have been notified that all monies collected for memberships should be turned in by that date.

Tea was served by Mrs. Walter Carswell and Mrs. Ivy Fairweather.

Mrs. T. S. Pittendrigh, on the right, received the Win Thom trophy symbolic of her victory in the recent finals conducted by the Kelowna Toastmistress Club. Her topic, Sharing the Wealth, was both timely and witty and delivered with humor and emphasis.

Toastmistresses Name Winner

A lively and interesting meeting was held on March 3 when the Kelowna Toastmistress Club held the finals of their speech contest. Mrs. T. S. Pittendrigh was voted the best speaker with Mrs. Glen Fraser, second. Mrs. Pittendrigh will now advance to the council speech contest to be held at Kamloops on April 17.

The other finalists in the Kelowna contest were Mrs. John Moisey and Mrs. Pat Higgins. Judges for the event were D. C. Fillmore, Wes Ginter, Russ Richardson and Mrs. Don Wort. Mrs. Chris Rogers had several members discussing lively topics with her original table topics.

ANN LANDERS

Twelve Rules To Guide Parents

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago you printed Twelve Rules For Raising Children. I carried the column in my wallet until it became so dog-eared and yellowed with age that it is no longer legible. Please print it again, Ann. It's worth a repeat.

San Antonio Mother

Dear Mother: Here it is. Thanks for asking:

1. Remember that a child is a gift from God, the richest of all blessings. Do not attempt to mold him in the image of yourself, your father, your brother or your neighbor. Each child is an individual and should be permitted to be himself.
2. Don't crush a child's spirit when he fails. And never compare him with others who have outshone him.
3. Remember that anger and hostility are natural emotions. Help your child to find socially acceptable outlets for these normal feelings or they may be turned inward and erupt in the form of physical or mental illness.
4. Discipline your child with firmness and reason. Don't let your anger throw you off balance. If he knows you are fair you will not lose his respect or his love. And make sure the punishment fits the crime. Even the youngest child has a keen sense of justice.
5. Remember that each child needs two parents. Present a united front. Never join with your child against your mate. This can create in your child (as well as in yourself) emotional conflicts. It can also create feelings of guilt, confusion and insecurity.
6. Do not hand your child everything his little heart desires. Permit him to know the thrill of earning and the joy of achieving. Grant him the greatest of all satisfactions — the pleasure that comes with personal accomplishment.
7. Do not set yourself up as the epitome of perfection. This is a difficult role to play 24 hours a day. You will find it easier to communicate with your child if you let him know that Mom and Dad can err, too.
8. Don't make threats in anger, or impossible promises when you are in a generous mood. Threaten or promise only that which you can live up to. To a child, a parent's word means everything. The child who has lost faith in his parents has difficulty believing in anything.
9. Do not smother your child with superficial manifestations of "love." The purest and healthiest love expresses itself in day-in, day-out training which breeds self-confidence and independence.
10. Teach your child there is dignity in hard work, whether it is performed with calloused hands that shovel coal or skilled fingers that manipulate surgical instruments. Let him know a useful life is a blessed one and a life of ease and pleasure-seeking is empty and meaningless.
11. Do not try to protect your child against every small blow and disappointment. Adversity strengthens character and makes us compassionate. Trouble is the great equalizer. Let him learn it.
12. Teach your child to love God and to love his fellow men. Don't SEND your child to a place of worship—TAKE him there. Children learn from example. Telling him something is not teaching him. If you give your child a deep and abiding faith in God it can be his strength and his light when all else fails.

Okanagan Mission Guider Finds Driving On The 'Wrong' Side Nerve

MRS. KENNETH LAWRENCE
What a shock it is to go tearing along the "wrong" side of the road. It took a lot of self-control to suppress a shriek when meeting a car on a curve. It just naturally seemed wrong. You do become accustomed to it though, and I found after returning home that it required concentration to stay on the right hand side.

The Local Associations at Rotorua had supplied us with lunch which we ate on the bus in Taupo beside the largest lake in New Zealand. Busload after busload of New Zealand guides hurried past towards Hastings. The barriers of shyness were lowering and the Canadian Rangers were wonderful in stirring up action, singing, teasing and trying to say all the strange names, which drew gales of laughter from the wonderful island people. They soon brought out their ukeleles and the rangers began learning the exotic dances, in the aisle. They were pretty stiff compared to the graceful natives. It all marked the formation of friendships which will last long into the future.

Back to Auckland for a minute. We had tried to eat as much as possible of the inexpensive food and at one point, ordered chicken and chips for 55 cents at a standup stand. No one seemed to be eating their orders here, so we disappeared around the corner onto a side street and began eating out of the paper bags. It was messy but delicious and we were enjoying ourselves immensely when we noticed a big dark fellow across the street beckoning to us and making all sorts of signals. We thought it pretty funny and ignored him, but were taken aback when he came up to us and even more taken aback when he offered us each five cents. In fact we left in a hurry. We decided later that he must have thought we were bums and wanted to help us.

the camp came mainly from division and district supplies all over New Zealand. This equipment began moving by rail six weeks prior to camp. Each of the 11 groups had a color code and everything designed for that group or to be used in that group had to show a color—tags on tents, poles, pegs, QM supplies and even the campers own personal kit, packed in a color-coded wooden box and shipped from home ahead of time. In this way, everything found its way to the correct site with a minimum of handling and checking of labels.

Our group (India) color was orange and the group leader had huge puffs of bright orange lambswool that every guide and guider wore on their blouse and pinned on their camp hat, making our group very distinctive as we blended into the camp at large for general activities. The souvenir bolo tie given to each camper also had cords of your color.

Traffic Colors Part Of Symbols In Care Labels For Fabrics

The three colors, red, amber and green usually associated with traffic signals will become part of the regular routine of care of fabrics in clothing and other household goods.

For years damaged fabrics have been a source of costly irritation and more recently, dry cleaners and laundresses, as well as consumers, have had a problem with many of the new synthetics because they did not know the proper way to treat them. So for better all around consumer relations informative care labelling will be most welcome.

manufacturers, launderers, dry cleaning members of CAC. Test methods have been established and standards have been set, which every fabric must meet before it can be labelled with the symbol appropriate to that operation. The label will apply to the whole article not just the major component. If a garment is composed of two or more fabrics, each one must meet the required standard for the cleaning method recommended. This should eliminate the anguish of shrinking, interlining, bleeding colors in the trim, rusting buttons or a disintegrating belt.

LOOK FOR LABELS

The important part is that an approved method of cleaning household textiles can be presented in a simple, clear, symbol form and can be permanently fastened to the article to which it applies.

In announcing the plans for the introduction of a voluntary system of care labelling, Consumer and Corporate Affairs minister Ron Basford urges all consumers to support the new system of labelling.

The three colors, plus a five symbol system will advise consumers on the proper procedure to use—how to wash, bleach, dry, iron or dry clean fabrics.

Specifications have been released to the trade and an intensive program of fabric testing and preparation of labels will be on the way this year. Use of the labels is voluntary but improper use of the symbols will be forbidden.

When the care labels begin to appear, consumers should make it clear to retailers that they want garments with the attached care labels. If you are interested write The Consumer, Box 99, Ottawa, Canada, and ask for a free color booklet showing exactly what the symbols mean and how the system will operate. Ask for Care Labelling for Textiles.

Brownie Badges Awarded During Mother-Daughter Banquet In Hall

The Parents' Committee of the First East Kelowna Brownies held a mother-daughter banquet Tuesday. Head table guests were Mrs. George Mills, retiring district 3 commissioner and Mrs. Peggy Labouane, retiring Brown Owl of South Kelowna. Mrs. Lisa Kupchanko was unable to attend.

The program opened with O Canada, with grace by Connie Bachmann. Pam Bourk led a toast to the mothers with her mother responding. Debby Sager, Guide, toasted Lady Baden-Powell and Mrs. Bachmann toasted the Queen.

Mrs. Gerlie Bachman, president of the parents' committee presented gifts to the retirees on behalf of the committee. Brown Owl, Mrs. Bernice Reid, presented the brownie badges which they had earned. Those receiving badges were:

Cory Orhison, Kathy Reid, Pam Nicholas, Jean Hardy, Glenda Bourk, Heather Stuart, toymakers; Christine Moric and Lorraine Wahl, collectors; Pam Bourk, writers; Brenda Venus, housekeeper; Sheila Stuart, three badges, collectors, toymakers and writers.

The following girls have worked hard but being unable to get together with the testers, will receive their badges later: Patty Brossevik, writers; Siegrid Leven, toymaker; Connie Bachmann, collector and Carmen St. Amand, toymaker and dancers.

The guides who had served the food were thanked and applauded for their splendid work. To round out a very enjoyable evening, the mothers joined their daughters in a few games.

3,000 MEALS
The first night at camp saw more than 3,000 hot meals served to the incoming campers, a massive undertaking under the conditions.

Each unit of 30 had their own kitchen area and store unit. We cooked all of our meals after that first night. Food was delivered to each group marquee by truck in the morning. All vegetables were prepared ready to cook and the supper meat was delivered at 5 p.m. in a big foil pan, hot and ready to eat. This pre-preparation of food was done to cut down on meal preparation time and enabled the guiders more free time to partake of the many activities planned for them.

WHITE WRITES

Education Now A Part

By LORNE WHITE

It wasn't too long ago Red Berenson and Red Hay were the only hockey players in the National Hockey League with a university education and outcasts of some sort.

Berenson, who began his career with the Montreal Canadiens, after a brilliant junior stint, was shunned by the executive and fans there, partly due to an unheard idea of completing his education and playing professional hockey at the same time.

He was eventually sent to New York Rangers and then to St. Louis where he made hockey history as one of the NHL's first super stars in the West, before moving on to Detroit last month.

Hay, with the Chicago Black Hawks and since retired to the business world, made his fame while playing on the same line with Stan Mikita during the good years, which included a Stanley Cup in 1961.

SINCE THOSE PIONEER DAYS pages have been written about the players who have come out of the college ranks into the NHL. Names such as Tony Esposito, Keith Magnuson, Cliff Koroll, Al Karlander, Frank Huck, Bill MacMillan, and others have strengthened the idea hockey is moving in the direction of football, basketball and baseball, as far as combining education with sport.

Another story, closer to home helps confirm the fact. The Saskatoon Blades of the Western Canada Hockey League, who have a working agreement with Kelowna Buckaroos, have one of the most scholarly hockey clubs in Canada.

It formal schooling won't be unobtainable in the WCHL. The Blades, third in the west division, well behind Edmonton and Calgary, have all but one player attending high school or university.

THAT'S NOT TO SAY THE team is long on brain power and short on hockey ability. The league's top point-producing line of Orest Kindrachuk, Laurie Yaworski and Dennis Abgrall are proof of that.

The trio has amassed almost 300 points this season and Yaworski and Kindrachuk, who have a chance to set league records, are expected to attend camps next fall. Abgrall, a 17-year-old rookie with more than 60 points, still has two more years in the WCHL.

Kindrachuk, a 20-year-old centre in second-year ophthalmology at the University of Saskatchewan had 107 points in 47 games. He had 17 games in which to reach the record of 168 set by Bob Clark of Flin Flon Bombers in 1967-68.

At 21, Yaworski has a bachelor of arts degree and is studying commerce to prepare for the business world when his hockey career is over.

YAWORSKI MISSED THE FIRST eight games of the season while playing with Portland Buckaroos of the Western Hockey League. He soon tired of sitting on the bench and bought his release so he could return to the Blades.

He spent three of his junior years with Regina Pats and was placed on the negotiation list of the Buffalo Sabres last November.

Because he has a degree, Yaworski isn't as concerned about school as he used to be. But his centreman wants to finish his three remaining years at university even if he makes the NHL next season.

Kindrachuk played only four games last season because of school and says he will attend university in the summer if he makes the pro league.

"There was no way I could have completed my school year if I was playing last year. I had to decide which it was going to be."

Last year was his draft year and sitting it out could have hurt his chances. However, Philadelphia Flyers have him on their negotiation list.

HE HAS BEEN OFFERED scholarships to play in the United States but has turned them down because the courses of study he wanted weren't available.

This is the first year that Kindrachuk has been able to play a full schedule. School has always held him back.

"Sometimes it's hard because you're thinking about a game when you should be studying. You have to budget your time."

McLeod says both players have faults and need to improve on them if they are to make the NHL. Yaworski has to practise checking and Kindrachuk needs to lengthen his stride.

The team in general, he says, is young and needs experience but they'll get more of that in the next 10 games before playoffs.

On the home front, Wayne North has adopted the same policy as his former teammate and close friend, trying to keep as many of his players in school while playing junior hockey.

One of the most promising prospects this season has been captain Doug Manchak, who has led the Buckaroos all season in scoring, as well as keeping pace with the rest of the league, scoring 38 goals in 55 games thus far.

Manchak, attending Okanagan Regional College, will probably find his way to Saskatoon next season, to further his hockey career and at the same time his education.

The 18-year-old leftwinger possibly typifies the thinking of the junior hockey player of today, with the thought of big time hockey on his mind, but education also occupying a large part.

All but one player is attending high school or college, with some already completing their Grade 12 or first semester this year.

The day of the journeyman hockey player may be coming to an end.

Ali Becomes A Trifle Peevish About That Apres-Fight Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali know what they plan to do during and after the fight. All that remains is the waiting and wondering.

Frazier, who has predicted Ali won't be able to stand the pressure of his attack, said Friday he will win his scheduled 15-round title defence Monday night in Madison Square Garden in front of 10 to 10 rounds.

"I don't want it to go beyond the first round if I can help it," the 6-to-5 favorite said, and added: "I'll be at the party."

This was in reference to a victory party for Frazier, which is set for a New York hotel and which has been advertised in a New York newspaper.

The advertisement has irked Ali who said after a workout in Miami Beach, Fla., Friday: "That's one party Frazier's gonna cancel. It might be more like a funeral."

PLANS GATHERING Ali's post-fight plans call for a gathering "... at some hotel, my buddies from all over the world and me."

"Ain't gonna be no party, though. It'll just be a meetin' with my fans."

Just how soon after the fight Ali will be able to join his "buddies from all over the world" he won't say because he is saving his prediction for the closed-circuit television audience shortly before the fight set 10:40 p.m. EST.

However, an Ali aide winked when asked if Ali's sealed, hand-written prediction called for him to stop Frazier in the seventh.

All, who has said he will win with speed and boxing ability, did say:

"Frazier's got to cut. I'll tag him—pow, pow—and then dance away. Nobody can go without cuttin' after six or eight rounds."

It was not known when the fighters would arrive in New York during the weekend.

Frazier is to weigh in at 11:30 a.m. Monday at the Garden.

St. Louis Blues Not Unhappy About Acquiring Bordeleau

By NICK FERRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Christian Bordeleau became a victim of National Hockey League housecleaning last May after Montreal Canadiens missed the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time in more than 20 years.

But St. Louis Blues, who purchased the 2-year-old centre from the Canadiens in a cash deal, have had little to regret in grabbing the Montreal centre.

Bordeleau's 16th goal this season proved to be the winner Friday night as the Blues came from behind to down Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1.

In the only other scheduled game, Buffalo Sabres rallied to tie the Chicago Black Hawks 2-2.

In tonight's action, Los Angeles Kings visit the Canadiens, Chicago travels to Toronto, Detroit Red Wings play host to New York Rangers.

Bringing back the Penguins to Pittsburgh and Vancouver Canucks meet the North Stars at Minnesota. Philadelphia Flyers welcome California Golden Seals in an afternoon contest.

Montreal travels to Detroit Sunday, Los Angeles travels to New York, St. Louis goes to Boston, Buffalo Sabres play host to the Canucks, Philadelphia tangles with the North Stars at Minnesota and the Penguins are at home to California.

HAD SHOULDER INJURY... Bordeleau came to St. Louis after missing the last third of his second season with the Canadiens because of a shoulder separation.

Because Montreal was loaded down the centre with veterans such as Jean Beliveau, Henri Richard and Ralph Backstrom, now with Los Angeles, Bordeleau saw limited action and managed only three goals in 61 games.

With the Blues, the Noranda, Que., native has been taking a regular shift and the Blues' confidence in him has paid off.

His third-period goal Friday came just 55 seconds after Jim Roberts had erased a one-goal advantage Bill MacMillan had given the Leafs.

Garry Unger, recently acquired from Detroit, sewed up the win with his 18th goal of the campaign about six minutes later.

The Blues, who unleashed 29 of their 41 shots in the first 40 minutes, were stymied by veteran Toronto goalie Jacques Plante until Roberts cracked the ice in the third period.

Plante, purchased by Toronto from the Blues last May, was showered with 41 shots by his former team-mates. Glenn Hall, another old-timer, allowed only MacMillan's second-period goal, turning back 15 other Leaf drives.

PLAYER BREAKS LEG The victory was costly to the Blues. They lost the services of right winger Gary Sabourin, who slammed into a Toronto goal post and broke his left leg.

The Sabres treated a home audience to a come-from-behind effort, rapping in a pair of second-period goals 62 seconds apart.

Bryan Campbell gave the Black Hawks a 1-0 lead-putting lead when he shoved in his own rebound past Buffalo goalie Joe Daley. Dan Mahoney made it 2-0 early in the middle period.

But then Eddie Shack struck with his 18th goal this season and rookie Steve Atkinson his 17th to pull Buffalo into the deadlock.

Royals Blank Penticton 3-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three other game were played Friday in the British Columbia junior hockey league and of them, a 3-0 whitewash of Penticton Broncos by New Westminster Royals, provided goalie Maurice L'Heureux with his first shutout of the season.

He came up with the puck several times when Bronco forwards were close in scoring position and booted out 30 shots.

Murray Kennet scored Royals' first goal and Jim Datzell and Dale Craig added insurance markers in the third.

Jim Lawrence of Vernon Esos, the league's leading scorer, was the driving force behind his team's close 6-5 defeat of Kamloops Rockets. He scored four goals and assisted on the other two.

Ed Johnstone and Wayne Dye were the other Vernon scorers. Replaying for Kamloops were Gerry Holland and Russ Welch-nik, each with a pair, and Oliver Steward.

A similar game ended in a 6-6 tie when Victoria Cougars and Vancouver Centennials met head-on. Vancouver took a 3-0 lead in the first period on goals by Bob Gaston, Neil Murphy and Pat Russell.

Pat Askew made it 3-1 before the period was out. Mike McCarthy scored Vancouver's fourth goal early in the second, then saw Victoria captain Gerry Bond narrow the gap to two goals.

BUCKS LOSE 4-2

Fans, Teams Struggle In The Memorial Arena

What was billed as an exciting contest between the B.C. Junior Hockey League's cellar-dwellers Friday, turned out to be a farce.

For those who managed to stay and see the entire game, it was probably the poorest 60 minutes of hockey this season, as the Buckaroos dropped a 4-2 decision to the Chilliwack Bruins in a lacklustre affair before 600 bored fans in the Memorial Arena.

Poor passing, lack of hustle, and numerous turnovers made it a sloppy affair from the opening whistle, with several of the fans leaving after the first period, and many more after the second.

While neither club were impressive at the best of times, the Bucks were disastrous, especially in their own end, giving up the puck time and again, and against any other club could have seen the opposition's total double.

OPEN SCORING The Bruins, on the first leg of a current three-game interior division swing, opened the scoring at 4:12 of the first period on a powerplay effort, with Greg Fox sitting out a holding penalty.

Larry Davies, by far the best man on the ice for the Bruins, put together two cute moves in close, faking a shot and leaving a Kelowna defender out in the cold, while slipping it past Ian MacCrimmon in the Buckaroo net.

Mike Randolph, who played on the same line as Doug Manchak in the BCJHL all-star team Feb. 23, made the Kelowna defensive corps look silly midway through the first frame, bulldozing by two blueliners while dragging a Buck forward behind him, and somehow managing to get a shot past MacCrimmon for the Bruins second tally.

TWO SHORT The Buckaroos found themselves two men short due to unnecessary infractions by Bruce Gerlach and Wayne Stewart, in the final minute of the period, while Ed Lavigne got Chilliwack's third tally.

In the second period, a carbon copy of the first, the Bruins stretched their lead to 4-0 at 5:55, with Davies again making a smooth move about 20 feet out from MacCrimmon and driving a low shot into the right hand corner.

The Buckaroos looked as though they would be coming out of the doldrums early in the final period, with Doug Manchak and Abe Apisla combining while a man short to spoil goaltender Dave Maynard's bid for a shutout. For Manchak, it was his 38th goal of the season.

The game fell back to the slow-moving variety after the early marker, with the Bruins satisfied with tight checking and dumping the puck into the Buckaroo end whenever possible to secure their three-goal margin.

The Bucks managed one more goal late in the game, with Ken Selinger getting a powerplay marker after Apisla had hit the goalpost seconds earlier.

For the Bruins, it was their second consecutive 4-2 victory in the Memorial Arena, and third win over the Buckaroos this season. They now have 11 wins to their record.

The Buckaroos, after shutting out Kamloops Rockets 3-0 Wednesday in Kamloops, get a chance to redeem themselves for Friday's display this Wednesday, when they play host to the Rockets at 8:30 p.m.

Overcrowded, Poor And Weak, That Would Be Free Palestine

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Overcrowded, poor, at the mercy of its neighbors and dependent on the United States for money—that's what most Arab Palestinians think an independent country of their own would be like if set up in the west bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

"For guerrilla leaders to accept such a state would be a crime perpetrated against future generations of Palestinians," says Hisham Sharabi, professor of history at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C.

"I am convinced that the Palestinians will never willingly give up their right to their homeland," adds Sharabi, a Palestinian, who now is visiting professor at the American University of Beirut.

Despite opposition to such a state, however, Sharabi and other Palestinian intellectuals acknowledged that it may be imposed on the Palestinians by the international community, including some Arab states.

The idea is that such a state would satisfy the grievances of the Palestinians for property and land they lost in the 1948 Palestine war.

Guerrilla leaders, including Yasser Arafat of Al Fatah, the largest group, have publicly declared their rejection of such a state.

The commanders' avowed objective is the creation of a secular bi-national state in the area that now is Israel and the west bank, where Jew and Arab could live with equal rights.

The snag is that the guerrilla organizations are so weak and rent by internal quarrels that it appears extremely unlikely they could ever make the dream a reality.

The Palestinians thought to be the most interested in a state are the community leaders on the west bank, who have been living under Israeli occupation for more than 3½ years.

King Hussein, for his part, said last weekend he would not object to a Palestinian state on the west bank and the Gaza Strip if that was what the Palestinians wanted.

The Israeli leadership has voiced firm opposition to an independent Palestinian state on the west bank.

QUEEN SAILS FOR FINAL HAVEN

With the help of nine tugboats, the luxury liner Queen Mary is towed to her final home (left), Pier J in Long Beach Harbor. The retired ocean liner, towed from its reconstruction berth at Pier E, will become a maritime museum and convention centre. The cost of the final 4½ mile voyage was more than $100,000. The city of Long Beach is in the background.

When The Shooting Was Over Medina Ordered Back To My Lai

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP) — When the shooting was over in My Lai in South Vietnam, a witness said here, Capt. Ernest Medina was ordered to go back into the village to determine if civilians were killed and how—but the order was countermanded by the highest ranking officer in the area, the division commander.

Maj. Charles C. Calhoun, operations officer of Task Force Barker, gave testimony in the trial of Lieut. William Calley Jr., who is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 Vietnamese civilians.

The division commander was Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, who originally was charged with helping to cover up the My Lai incident but later was cleared of the charge.

Calhoun said he was in a helicopter over My Lai 4 when: "We had gotten word from the brigade. They wanted us to re-enter My Lai 4 to see if any civilians had been killed and by what means they had been killed."

Calhoun said he did not know who the instructions came from, but he passed them on to Medina.

Medina was commander of Charlie Company and the immediate superior of Calley, who said the order to kill civilians came from Medina.

The major was asked Medina's response.

"Capt. Medina requested not to go back into the village. He was concerned about mines in the area. He said between 20 and 30 civilians had been killed. 'I told him the instructions were to go back,' Calhoun said. 'At that time the division commander interrupted and said there was no need to go back in there.'"

MPS STUDY SURTAX

Grits Have A 'Forked Tongue'

OTTAWA (CP) — The Creditists led the opposition in lambasting the government recently for speaking "with forked tongues" and supporting campaign contributors with a bill to extend the three-per-cent surtax on corporate and personal income taxes.

Charles-Arthur Gauthier (Creditiste-Roberval) accused the government of deception. It had introduced the surtax in 1968 calling it a temporary measure to fight inflation.

Roland Godin (Creditiste-Portneuf) said the government always supported the wealthy—those who fill Liberal campaign coffers.

The bill would also provide a capital cost allowance to businesses buying certain kinds of machinery, equipment and buildings.

They could value such purchases at 115 per cent of their actual price in writing them off against income taxes.

Both measures were proposed in the government's Dec. 3 budget.

Mr. Godin offered a motion that would delay second reading of the bill six months, in effect killing it.

MOTION DEFEATED
The motion was defeated 91 to 49, with the three opposition parties siding against the Liberals.

Standing in the 264-seat Commons: Liberal 152, Conservative 72, New Democrat 23, Creditiste 13, Independent 1, vacant 3.

Creditiste Rene Matte (Champlain) accused the government of "thinly veiled arrogance" in continuing the surtax.

Government policies were resulting in "unemployment, social deterioration and anarchy."

U.S. Racing Driver First In Grand Prix
JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) — Mario Andretti of the U.S., driving a Ferrari today won the South African Formula One Grand Prix.

In second place was Britain's Jackie Stewart driving a Tyrrell.

Third was Swiss driver Clay Regazzoni in another Ferrari.

Sweden's Reine Wisell in a Lotus 72 was fourth, Chris Amon of New Zealand in a McLaren-Simca finished fifth and fellow New Zealander Denny Hulme was sixth in a McLaren M-19.

Calley Now Ignored

FORT BENNING, Ga. (AP) — The defendant, Lieut. William Calley, is being virtually ignored in this stage of his murder trial as the jury seeks to reach higher in the line of command for the answer to what happened at My Lai and why.

The questions to witnesses Thursday continued to concentrate on the briefing Calley and his men received from their company commander on the eve of the March 16, 1968, infantry sweep through the South Vietnamese village.

The prosecution hopes to show Calley's instructions did not include the killing of non-combatants.

Efforts by the jury to widen the scope of the trial—through their questions and requests for witnesses that now include a major-general—brought a stern rebuke Thursday from Judge Reid Kennedy.

"I want you to clearly understand you are not here to investigate the operations of Task Force Barker," he said, addressing himself to the colonel, four majors and a captain on the jury.

"The only thing for your determination is whether Lieut. Calley is or is not guilty of the four offences charged."

102 MURDERS CHARGED
Calley, a platoon leader in one of the companies that comprised the force, is being tried on charges that he killed 70 unresisting civilians in one instance, 30 in another, plus a man and a child.

Throughout the trial, which began Nov. 12, the jurors have posed questions to the judge for relay to witnesses.

Wednesday, Kennedy informed the jury it also has the right to request witnesses to be heard when both sides have rested.

AVOID MISTAKES
in your passport application

Anybody can make mistakes — but when you make one in your passport application it could spoil your whole trip. Because mistakes cause delays you might not have your passport in time.

The Canadian Passport Office suggests:

- Double check your application — be sure you have answered all questions and followed all instructions.
- Apply early — if you do make a mistake there will be time to have it corrected.

DEPARTMENT OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS

Passport applications are available from all post offices, travel agencies and airline and steamship companies.

Dr. Bouchard still makes house calls.

The tiny village of Rock Island, Quebec, gets an annual average snowfall of 100 inches. And the temperature can sit below zero for weeks.

So when Dr. Gilles Bouchard's patients can't get to him, he goes to them. By Volkswagen.

They say around Rock Island that it makes folks feel better just seeing his little red VW chugging about the countryside.

But for him, a Volkswagen is more a necessity than an eccentricity. In fact, it's just what the doctor ordered.

His practice covers 500 square miles. And what with churning through drifts along snow-choked backroads in winter, or slogging through mud and slush in the spring, he logs 15,000 miles a year.

And while travel by Volkswagen isn't the fastest method known to man, we were delighted to hear that a bug can still win a race with the storks.

One sub-zero morning, a baby was on the way 20 miles from town. But the doctor wasn't. His other car, a big fast sedan, wouldn't start.

What to do?

"In spite of the cold, the bug started right away," says Dr. Bouchard.

"And I made it just in the nick of time."

Mother, baby, doctor and Volkswagen are doing just fine.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Asthmatic Bronchitis Afflicts Young Baby

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I just found out that my three-month-old daughter has asthmatic bronchitis and I hope you can give me some information.

Is there a chance she'll outgrow it? Can living in a basement flat worsen the condition? Is it hereditary?—Mrs. R.M.

Asthma denotes a congestion and swelling of the airways; bronchitis signifies infection of some sort. Both cause wheezing and difficulty in breathing.

Asthma in early childhood is usually related to food sensitivity (allergy). However, infection also can have a similar result—the common cold being, of course, a frequent type of infection. Presence of the infection can set off the same wheezing type of reaction that a food allergy can.

If the asthma is due to infection, then the trouble subsides as the infection is brought under control.

Could both be involved—bouts of infection and also allergy? Indeed, yes, it's possible, but not necessarily so. There are children who react asthmatically to infection but do not happen to be allergic to foods, pollens, dust, or other things.

Is there a chance she'll outgrow this trouble? Yes, there is, because children do tend to outgrow some of these allergies. You can't count on its happening, but it may.

Living in a basement apartment might or might not be a factor. Dampness can lead to the presence of mold of one type or another. If the youngster happens to be allergic to these molds, then it can have a bearing on the asthma. But if an apartment is dry and has good ventilation, there is no reason for it to interfere with health merely because it is in a basement.

As to heredity, a tendency to allergies certainly can be inherited, but that is not the same as saying that asthmatic bronchitis can be—because it isn't.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: It bothers me, the things my daughter, lets my 10-year-old granddaughter eat. Although she gets fairly well-balanced meals, she goes wild with spicy foods, barbecued ribs and chicken, pizza, mustard and pickles. She lets her dip up gobs of catsup with a French fry and lick it off. I feel like a witch complaining, but I always thought so much spices was bad.—Mrs. E.L.

Well, I guess you'd best stop complaining. I agree that it's better to bring up youngsters so they aren't spice-happy, because they may have trouble later in life if, for example, they have to give up spicy foods because of ulcers, gastritis, or something.

But there's also always the chance that your granddaughter has a rugged stomach that won't be bothered. Youngsters usually learn eating patterns from the parents. With all that spicy food around, what about your daughter's or son-in-law's tastes?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it safe to have a "nerve block" to stop continuing pain from shingles?—E.M.A.

It isn't a matter of safety—such a procedure can be done with safety—but the problem is that it seldom works. The nerves affected by shingles can be expected to have the inflammation so deep at its origin that the nerve cannot be blocked (or severed) at a point deep enough to stop the pain.

Opening lead—three of spades.

The overwhelming majority of hands are relatively simple affairs, both in the bidding and play, but some are more complicated and require exceedingly expert manipulation for the best result to be achieved.

Consider this deal where Kenneth Konstam, British star, got to six spades. Had West led a heart, a diamond or a club, declarer would have made the slam with ease, but West came forth with the highly inspired lead of a trump.

East won with the ace and returned a trump, and Konstam was now faced with the task of acquiring a twelfth trick—with only eleven in clear sight.

He solved the problem rather neatly by leading the king of clubs from dummy, forcing East (who had doubled four clubs) to cover with the ace. Konstam ruffed and then played four more rounds of trumps, producing this position:

North		South
♠ A K 10	♠ 10 4	♠ 6	♠ 3
♥ J 9 6	♥ J 8 5	♥ A K 6 2	♥ 3
♦ J	♦ 3	♦ A K 6 2	♦ 3

Declarer led his last trump and West did as well as he could when he discarded the nine of diamonds. Konstam discarded a diamond from dummy and East, who could not afford to part with a diamond, was forced to let go of a heart.

Konstam thereupon cashed the A-K of diamonds and there was no escape for West—since he could not discard safely from his Q-7-5 of hearts and queen of clubs in front of dummy's A-K-10 of hearts and jack of clubs.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR SUNDAY

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries) — Your energies at a peak! Put in some extra hours to increase earnings.
Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Especially favored today: Creative and intellectual pursuits.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Look for something interesting to happen in your romantic life.
June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — A sense of peace replaces the hectic activities of the past three days.
July 22 to Aug. 21 (Leo) — Persons of importance may give you some support in a new venture.
Aug. 22 to Sept. 21 (Virgo) — A good day in which to get information you need for a future project.
Sept. 22 to Oct. 21 (Libra) — Be careful not to give in to harmful emotional impulses today.
Oct. 22 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio) — Make all possible social contacts. They can prove surprisingly helpful.
Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius) — Your job/financial welfare can be greatly aided by friends now.
Dec. 22 to Jan. 21 (Capricorn) — Be bold and original in your thinking along creative lines.
Jan. 22 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius) — Friends who call will be highly stimulating, but may prove somewhat tiring.
Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces) — Renewing old ties and associations will prove most heartwarming.

BUILT 150 BOMBERS
But the Russians never built more than 150 bombers they have today. By comparison, the United States has more than 3,000 bombers capable of reaching targets anywhere in the Soviet Union.

With the passing years, the U.S. air defense system grew obsolete and more expensive to maintain.

By June 30, the army will have closed out 38 more Nike-Hercules batteries in 15 states, leaving about 43 still operational.

FOR MONDAY

Mar. 21 to Apr. 20 (Aries) — Don't spend too much on entertainment. By mid-week, you'll regret it.
Apr. 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Interference in your plans may cause some concern, but things will work out.
May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — An open and frank discussion of problems can help to clear them up.
June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Don't let friends influence you unduly in your thinking about finances.
July 22 to Aug. 21 (Leo) — A relatively calm and untroubled day, so forget your problems and relax.
Aug. 22 to Sept. 21 (Virgo) — Lack of clarity in instructions could lead to errors or wasted effort.
Sept. 22 to Oct. 21 (Libra) — Those around you may be unreasonably and over-sensitive. Don't argue.
Oct. 22 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio) — Unexpected complications call for sudden change in a business matter.
Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius) — Look for ways to vary routine. A new "twist" could relieve monotony.
Dec. 22 to Jan. 21 (Capricorn) — Stars favor romance. Give your loved one an extra measure of affection.
Jan. 22 to Feb. 19 (Aquarius) — A good day for furthering your personal affairs or creative plans.
Feb. 20 to Mar. 20 (Pisces) — A gathering of the folks makes your home a theatre of happiness.

Astrophysics — Planetary influences make this a day in which to "expect the unexpected." Be realistic and cautious in all things. This pertains to personal relationships especially. Steer clear of those who have been a source of irritation in the past, and try to avoid misunderstandings with those in close circles. Do not put too much faith in new and sudden "romances," either.

U.S. Army Plans Sharp Cutback In Defences Against Bombers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is sharply cutting its air defenses against bomber attack in a move reflecting a Soviet threat that never reached its expectations.

The army said it will deactivate half its remaining Nike-Hercules missile batteries, and as followed by air force disclosures of plans to cut and "greatly" thinner its fighter-interceptor squadrons.

The move represents both an economy measure and a continuing shift in air defense concepts that began in the early 1960s as the Russians concentrated on intercontinental ballistic missiles.

In the 1950s, when the Russians were building a range of bombers, the United States set up an elaborate shield of Nike-Hercules missiles around its major cities. Backing up these ground-to-air missiles, equipped with either nuclear or conventional warheads, were more than 1,500 fighter-interceptors.

But the Russians never built more than 150 bombers they have today. By comparison, the United States has more than 3,000 bombers capable of reaching targets anywhere in the Soviet Union.

With the passing years, the U.S. air defense system grew obsolete and more expensive to maintain.

By June 30, the army will have closed out 38 more Nike-Hercules batteries in 15 states, leaving about 43 still operational.
